Japs Begin Push to Drive Chinese Out of Shanghai

1927—Aviation Progress—1937

HOW coast-to-coast mail flights have been speeded up in 10 years' time is illustrated above. During the decade, 1927-1937, flying time has been reduced from single-engine plane schedules of 33 hours with 14 stops to 15 hours and three stops. The single-engine plane cruised at a mere 95 miles an hour and the two-engine present-day planes have a cruising speed of 200 miles an hour.

Nearly 4,000 Children Resume School Work

A vacation had ended, and nearly all of Pickaway county's 4,000 boys and girls of school age had answered the call of the roll Monday morning when all but a few schools resumed classes. The remainder will start Tuesday morning, boards of education of Pickaway, Monroe, Harrison township, and Ashville preferring to grant their pupils the Labor Day vacation.

Circleville opens its 38-week schedule next Monday morning. Willing and unwilling farm and village boys and girls ended their three-month vacations Monday morning. Buses made their regular runs, and full programs of reading, riting, and arithmetic were outlined for the year. All the schools that started their sessions adjourned at noon with instructions to the pupils to be prepared for real work Tuesday morning. No pupils carried lunches Monday, but all were expected to on Tuesday, or else go without food.

TOKYO'S TROOPS REPORT WALLED TOWN CAPTURED

Land, Aerial, Naval Forces In Action Two Vessels Are Taken

SHANGHAI, Sept. 6—(UP)—The greatest combined land, aerial and naval bombardment of the war rocked Shanghai today as Japanese reinforcements advanced in their push to blast the Chinese out of the Yangtze delta.

The Japanese announced they had captured the walled town of Paoshan, on the Yangtze just above where the Whangpoo empties into it. Japanese soldiers in the vanguard scaled the walls with ladders despite heavy Chinese fire.

Push Toward Woosung
From Lotien, where the Chinese previously had driven them back, the Japanese were pushing toward Woosung, at the mouth of the Whangpoo. The Japanese claimed to have captured the Lion Forest fort in this area.

Chinese sources admitted that the Chinese had retired near the Lion forest.

The Japanese succeeded in landing an estimated 15,000 additional troops along the lower Whangpoo under cover of the bombardment.

With the arrival of these troops, as well as Chinese reinforcements, foreign military observers estimated that 75,000 Japanese and 150,000 Chinese troops now were locked in the combat around Shanghai.

While the fighting in the Shanghai area raged close to the international settlement, these other developments also marked the Japanese push:

1. The Japanese blockade, instituted Aug. 25 along an 800-mile stretch of the Chinese coast, was extended to include the entire 2,000 miles from the Manchukuo border on the north to French Indo-China in the south. The aim was to prevent the Chinese from bringing in outside supplies. The (Continued on Page Eight)

MRS. B. S. CUSTER DIES AT 76 ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Funeral arrangements were being completed Monday for Mrs. Mary Jane Custer, 76, wife of Benson S. Custer, Madison township, and mother of Bryan Custer, W. Franklin street. Mrs. Custer, one of northeastern Pickaway county's best known women, died in Columbus Sunday while on the way to Grant hospital. Hemorrhages caused death.

Mrs. Custer and her husband had gone to Columbus just before noon Sunday to spend the day with a daughter, Mrs. Minnie Tobin, 169 Mithoff street. While there she became stricken.

CELEBRATION OF LABOR DAY TO BE QUIET FOR CITY, COUNTY RESIDENTS

Circleville and Pickaway county observed a cool and quiet Labor Day.

No celebrations were arranged, and heavy rains caused many residents to cancel picnics and outings planned for the day. A celebration was planned at Gold Cliff Chateau. There will be airplane stunts, a parachute jump at 5 p. m. and passenger trips throughout the afternoon in a tri-motor plane. Athletic events have been arranged with prizes for winners.

MANY AUTOS HIT ON RURAL ROADS

Police, Sheriff Have Busy Week-End; Little Girl Hit By Machine

City and county officers investigated a series of accidents over the week-end in which no one was seriously injured.

Robert Peters and Paul Davis, of Circleville, escaped with bruises Sunday evening when the former's car and another, driven by a Fairfield county man, collided in Amanda. A front wheel and fender on the Peters car were damaged.

Fairfield county authorities reported that a man driving a model T. Ford started to cross Route 22 in front of the Peters machine. The driver of the other car was not hurt.

Police were unable to learn the name of a little girl who received bruises Saturday night when she was bumped by an auto at Main and Court streets.

ELSTER COPELAND TO MANAGE PLANT IN BUFFALO, N. Y.

Elster B. Copeland, W. Mound street, manager of the grain department and assistant manager of the Circleville plant of the Ralston-Purina Co., for the last four years, has been transferred to Buffalo, N. Y., to become manager of the Checker Board Elevator Co., a subsidiary of the Ralston-Purina Co.

Mr. Copeland has already gone to Buffalo to begin his new work. He came to Circleville from St. Louis shortly after Ralston-Purina acquired the H. M. Crites elevators and has been active in the company's development since that time. He has been active socially and civically while a resident of Circleville, serving since Jan. 1 as secretary of the Kiwanis club.

Mr. Copeland, his wife and baby daughter will remove to Buffalo soon.

No successor has been appointed, Ray Rowland, plant manager said Monday.

The car of Roland Burgoon, Hayward avenue, was stolen Saturday night from a parking space on W. Main street. It was a Ford sedan with a blue body and black wheels.

TWO-INCH RAIN FALLS IN CITY TO END DROUGHT

WIND CAUSES DAMAGE

Barn, Hay Destroyed In Walnut Township

A Summer drought that threatened to greatly reduce the value of Pickaway county's late corn crop had been broken Monday after a rainfall that totaled nearly two inches during the week-end.

"More rain fell in 20 hours Saturday night and Sunday morning than was recorded in the entire month of August," Dr. H. R. Clarke, weather observer, declared Monday in checking his records.

The storm broke early Saturday when a heavy rain, accompanied by high wind that leveled several fields of standing corn west of the city, fell. The rain continued through the night and until noon Sunday.

Dr. Clarke's government gauge showed 1.5 inches of rainfall from Saturday evening until 7 a. m. Sunday. The remainder of the rain amounted to .42 of an inch.

Temperature Falls
Accompanying the rainfall came a drop in temperature. Friday's high figure was 91 degrees Sunday's was 77. The thermometer dropped to 66 degrees during Saturday night's rain, and skidded 12 degrees lower Sunday night. The low reading of the week-end was 54 degrees, chalked up at 7 a. m. Monday.

The heavy rain, that appeared general, sent the Scioto river up three feet to a mark of 5.17 feet. It was still rising Monday.

Lightning Destroys Snyder Farm Barn

Sixty-three loads of hay, farm implements and harness were destroyed late Saturday afternoon when a large barn on the farm of E. A. Snyder, tenanted by John Malone, in Walnut township was burned after being struck by lightning.

A young calf and several horses were removed to safety.

The Ashville fire department went to the scene, but was unable to prevent complete destruction of the barn. The firemen helped to save a garage and chicken house nearby.

The barn was insured for $1,000 and the grain and hay destroyed for $700 by Mr. Snyder. Mr. Malone had insurance on other chattel property burned.

FIELD ARTILLERY UNIT HOME AFTER 18 DAYS IN CAMP

Thirty-two Circleville members of the headquarters battery, 136th field artillery, who have been at Fort Knox, Ky., for the last 18 days, arrived home at 6 a. m. Monday.

The group left Fort Knox at 4:15 p. m. Sunday. Joseph Lynch, second lieutenant, reported the group had a splendid time and was kept busy. The battery issued all types of supplies for the regiment. Merchandise issued included over $3,000 worth of food, 7,000 rounds of ammunition, 4,000 gallons of gasoline, and various other items estimated to amount to over $2,000.

TWO OF FILM COLONY COUPLES MARRY, WHILE RAYE SEEKS DIVORCE

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6—(UP)—The week-end shuffle of movie colony romance provided husbands for Miriam Hopkins and Alice Faye, and a divorce suit for Martha Raye, proving, for the nonce, that bridegrooms preferred blondes.

The silver-haired Miss Hopkins, a veteran of two former weddings, eloped to Yuma, Ariz., in a chartered airplane with Anatola Litvak, Russian-born director. He fell in love with her a year ago when she starred in his first American picture, "The Woman I Love."

Also to Yuma by airplane went Miss Faye, the blonde songbird, and Tony Martin, movie and radio crooner.

VIOLENCE ENDS LIVES OF 200

Airplanes, Auto Crashes, Drownings Add To Nation's Toll

BY UNITED PRESS
Violence had brought death to more than 200 persons in 30 states as the nation entered the last day of the last holiday week-end of the summer today.

Airplane and automobile accidents, lightning, drownings, suicides, even a duel, added to the three-day toll which the National Safety Council predicted would reach 1,000.

OUTLAW HUNTED AFTER KIDNAPING TWO POLICEMEN

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y., Sept. 6—(UP)—State and local police joined hundreds of private possmen today in a hunt for a desperate fugitive who held two Johnson City, N. Y., policemen as protective hostages for 14 hours.

Clyde Derrick, sought for forgery, released Policemen Patrick Cunningham and Harry Pettit at a deserted farm house in Cincinnati, 35 miles north of here, after forcing them at gun point to drive through a succession of traps. Police found the fugitive's car abandoned in Syracuse, 80 miles away.

The kidnapped policemen joined the hunt yesterday morning after Derrick had eluded officers at suburban Westover, where police said he sold an automobile he had purchased with a forged check. Chief Inspector Albert B. Moore, in charge of the search, said Derrick has been convicted on five felony counts.

At 6:15 a. m. yesterday, Derrick was picked up by Cunningham and Pettit as they cruised by in a police car outside Johnson City. Although he did not answer the fugitive's exact description, the officers had intended to book him for questioning. En route to police headquarters, Derrick flashed a .32 calibre automatic and said quietly:

"We are not going to the station house. Get me out of this town—quick."

The policemen, hearing the click of the safety catch on the automatic, elected to obey the "prisoner."

GREEN AND LEWIS ADDRESS WORKERS

Roosevelt Writes Letter to Leader of Drive to Organize Public Employees; Militant Union Effort Scored

Labor's leaders went on the air Monday afternoon to outline their programs for the working man and his family. John L. Lewis, leader of the Committee for Industrial Organization, was to be heard at 1:30 p. m.; Frank Morrison, another leader, was scheduled at 2:30 p. m., and William Green, president of the Federation of Labor, was booked at 3:15 p. m.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—(UP)—The most powerful voices of the nation's two great, warring labor organizations called on their members today to press for the unionization of every worker and to fight the rival to a finish.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor and John P. Frey, president of its metal trades department, renewed the federation drive to offset gains of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

Frey, at Baltimore, called for intensified collective bargaining on the basis "of faithful observance of all agreements." Green spoke at Dallas, Tex. Lewis carried on his militant drive for unionization on industrial lines in a speech at Pittsburgh.

In countless other cities, labor rallied on its own holiday. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will close the day with an address over the Columbia network at 9:45 P. M. EST.

Roosevelt Writes
In the capital, a letter from President Roosevelt iterated his view that militant strikes by public employees would be "unthinkable and intolerable."

He wrote to Luther C. Stewart, president of the National Federation of Government Employees, expressing again the opinion he set forth in response to plans of the C. I. O. to organize government employees. He said organization of federal workers to improve their lot is "natural and logical."

Labor's new year began in the bitterest of internal strife but with far more men and women than ever before carrying union cards—more than 7,000,000.

Lewis claims for his C. I. O. more than 3,800,000 of them. Before he split with the A. F. of L. and launched the C. I. O. into one of the amazing and eventful years of labor history, the 56-year-old federation had 3,500,000 members.

C. I. O. strikes in the seemingly impregnable automobile and steel industries were primarily responsible for a 300 percent increase in the number of strikers in the first seven months of 1937 over the same period of last year.

Struggles to organize to obtain recognition and to get contracts sent 1,197,644 persons to the picket lines or their homes.

Frey, at Baltimore, assailed the "communist" and "self-anointed halo wearers and their second cousins from the lunatic fringe" who have headed the C. I. O. drive—

"men who in envy had continually snapped at the heels of the A. F. of L."

Based on American Ideals
He contended that the federation was making steady gains and set as a goal the teaching of every worker that the trade union movement is "based on American institutions and animated by American ideals."

FARMERS URGED TO SEEK POWER FOR PROPERTIES

70 Percent of Ohioans Without Service, Says State Specialist

CHARGES ARE DISCUSSED

Possibilities Should Be Investigated

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6 — Advantages and conveniences of electrical power are so numerous that I. P. Blauser, specialist in agricultural engineering, Ohio State University, says all Ohio farm owners not having such service should investigate the possibilities of obtaining this form of power for the home and farm.

Ohio already is in the front line of states in the building of rural power lines but Blauser says there are still 70 percent of the farms here without high line service. Some of these farms have individual lighting plants, there having been 50,000 individual light plants in Ohio.

The home lighting plant cannot compete with high line service for supplying power to run farm machinery. Blauser advised farmers in Ohio communities to find out if it is possible for them to get power lines built in their neighborhood. Two methods are available, the first is to make contracts with existing power companies and the second is to form companies to build lines cooperatively.

Contracts Governed

Contracts with Ohio power companies for building rural lines are governed by Administrative Order No. 110 of the Public Utility Commission. This permits the companies to charge rural customers a minimum monthly payment of not to exceed 2 percent of the total cost of building the line.

Blauser states that, if the cost of building the rural line is $1,000 a mile, the company can require a minimum charge of $20 per mile per month. This charge would be divided between the customers on the mile of line; the average is four homes per mile in Ohio so each owner would pay a minimum of $5 a month.

The other possibility of getting electrical service in farm homes is for groups of farmers to form co-operative associations and borrow the money to build power lines. The Rural Electrification Administration is working on a 10-year program with $410,000,000 available for bringing high line service to farmers in the United States.

The money is loaned only after each project has been carefully examined to find if it promises to be a practical venture. Loans by the REA are made with the lines as security and lines which will not be used by steady customers are not good security. Ohio farmers are now building or have completed many miles of power lines with money obtained from the REA.

County agricultural agents or the agricultural engineering staff at the University can give more information about electrical service. Most farmers live within driving distance of the headquarters office of one of the co-operative companies now building or operating power lines. Visits to the offices and talks with the officers will prove to indicate whether or not similar projects are practical in your community.

FARM NEWS

Brief Items of Interest to Pickaway Farmers

Ohio is putting a mortgage on the future of her State Fair by providing inadequate facilities for Junior Fair exhibitors.

Ohio's sugar beet crop for 1937 is forecast as being average but is 41,000 tons short of the harvest for last year.

Cattle feeders on August first reported they expected to buy fewer feeder cattle in the last five months this year than for the same period in 1936. Better feed prospects may change this decision.

Poultrymen who have been trying to make both ends meet for the past few months should get some consolation from the prediction of lower food prices and probable good prices for eggs in the early months of 1937. Young birds are scarcer than usual in farm flocks.

The usual response to market prices by wheat growers in their fall plantings will result in 81 million acres being seeded to this crop. With average yields, that acreage would furnish a harvest of 950 million bushels. Domestic consumption in the United States is about 650 million bushels annually.

Foster Parents Adopt Donald

HERE is the happy ending to Chicago's parentage tangle. Mr. and Mrs. Otto Horst, Donald's foster parents, emerge from the courtroom with the boy after the judge had given his consent to their papers of adoption. The real mother, who kidnaped little Donald and then returned him to authorities, agreed to the adoption. She told the court she had no means of supporting the child properly.

Potato Growers Seeking Marketing Assistance

Potato growers in several of the heavier producing areas in the United States have asked the marketing division of the A.A.A. to administer marketing agreements to bring a semblance of order to the sale of this year's crop.

The plan proposed by the potato growers is to make agreements to sell only good quality potatoes and to keep culls and low grade potatoes off the market. If such agreements go into effect it will have some effect on Ohio farmers and on local buyers of potatoes.

The potato crop for the United States this year was forecast on August 1 at 402,537,000 bushels, and Ohio is expected to harvest 11,997,000 bushels. The nation's crop is about 10 per cent larger than the average crop harvested in the years 1928-32 and the Ohio crop is considerably above the average for those years.

A big potato crop usually means hard times in the sections where potatoes are the chief crop. Large supplies and low prices make a double burden for the producers. Those producers are trying to solve the problem by asking that only the best of the potatoes be sent to market and thereby reduce the number of bushels available for sale.

If this plan succeeds, it will tend to make the price higher to consumers but they will get a better grade of product. It also will tend to stabilize the production of potatoes so there will not be such wide fluctuations from year to year in the number of acres planted.

Very low prices for potatoes tend to drive out of the producing field growers who plant the crop only when they hope to make a fortune. This decrease in planting reduces the crop, prices sky rocket, and the in-and-outers come back in the producing field. Another big crop drives prices down and the cycle begins again.

The proposed marketing agreements are an effort to forestall such fluctuations. Growers hope to secure prices which will enable them to pay operating expenses this year and they also hope to keep prices next year below levels that bring the in-and-outers into the production field.

Potato growers are producing a crop that has had a history of feast and famine. One year up and the next year down has been the story of a crop which has to be sold the year it is produced. Potatoes cannot be placed in storage and held indefinitely like grain or cotton. The 1937 crop must be moved within a few months after it is harvested.

New Trailer Use

HOLLISTER, Cal. (UP) — The latest use for trailers is that of maternity ward — minus the doctor. Mrs. Freeman Farmer, 38-year-old wife of a Missouri rancher, utilized theirs to give birth to twins. "We never bother about a doctor," she explained.

usually, The 1937 wheat crop will be nearly 890 million bushels.

Agronomists at Ohio State University issue the warning that soil erosion does not stop when the growing season for crops is over. Winter rains remove untrodden top soil nearly as rapidly as summer downpours. Cover crops of small grains protect bare soil during the winter. Fall plowing on sloping ground may ruin a field if no cover crop is planted.

TROPICS TO GET HONEY VINEGAR

EAST LANSING, Mich., Sept. 6 (UP)—Julio Rendon has returned to his native Yucatan prepared to make vinegar from honey, after conferring at Michigan State College for a week with Dr. F. W. Fabian of the bacteriology department.

He intends to breed bees whose honey will be used almost exclusively in manufacturing vinegar which he will offer for sale.

"In this country, vinegar is produced from cider," Rendon said, "but in Yucatan we have no fruits available for making cider. The vinegar made in Yucatan is very poor." Dr. Fabian added that throughout the tropics it is difficult to obtain proper acetic fermentation and that in Mexico vinegar sells for 90 cents a pint. Much of it is imported from the United States. Rendon believes he will be able to supply the demand with his bees and the honey-to-vinegar process, which he describes as "simple — just a little water, a few chemicals, mix the combination with honey, and the mixture ferments at once."

Rendon, a Spaniard whose family has been in Mexico for 150 years, is 73 now, portly, and distinguished looking. He formerly sold in Mexico Lansing-made windmills and shoes manufactured in Michigan, and he has traveled extensively in this country and abroad. Before he left his home, his wife looked at a map and immediately insisted that he pack heavy underwear. East Lansing's summer climate didn't warrant its use, however.

Rendon had corresponded with Dr. Fabian for a year and a half before he came here, and had made some vinegar from honey, but wanted more advice before he entered the vinegar business. He isn't the only man interested in manufacturing vinegar from honey. Dr. Fabian has also corresponded about the process with persons in Tahiti, Guatemala and Santo Domingo.

JURORS ORDERED TO APPEAR FOR SEYMOUR TRIAL

Notices have been sent to 20 petit jurors to report in common pleas court Thursday at 9 a. m. to hear the trial of Clyde Seymour, 24, of Pontius Lane, on a charge of driving when intoxicated. Seymour asked a jury trial.

Those to report are Daniel Reed and Orville Dountz, Scioto township; Mrs. Luther Dean and Milton Fullen, Muhlenberg township; Clarence McAbee and Wanda Wardell, Wayne township; H. W. Wardell, Mrs. Elvin Worthington, Everett Eakin and Ross Deyo, Darby township; W. E. ## INDUSTRY HOLDS MAIN INTEREST FOR STUDENTS

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The fifteen foreign students at the University of Pennsylvania Summer School are focusing their attention on America's industrial development, military and naval strength, according to Dr. George Nitzsche, Recorder of the university. "It appears that in the present state of world political and social unrest," Dr. Nitzsche said, "their eyes are on America's future."

Differing from American students, who are intent upon visiting historic sites, Dr. Nitzsche said, students from abroad are interested in the United States Arsenal, the Navy Yard and large factories.

CUTTING CHARGE FOLLOWS FIGHT ON MAIN STREET

Alton Smith Jailed; James
Miller Goes to Hospital
With Slashed Abdomen

CITY POLICE KEPT BUSY

Trip to Jail Results From Traffic Collision

Nineteen persons were arrested by city police over the week-end, one of the busiest periods experienced in the department in many weeks.

Alton "Buck" Smith, 53, of New Holland, former resident of Circleville, was arrested on a charge of cutting with intent to wound James F. Miller, W. Main street.

Chief William McCrady said members of the department took Miller to Berger hospital where he was treated by Dr. E. L. Montgomery for a cut on the left arm that required four stitches to close and a seven-inch laceration over the abdomen. The officer said Miller was cut with a pocket knife.

Fight on Main Street

McCrady said the fight occurred on W. Main street. He said Miller gave Smith a severe beating after being wounded. Smith was treated for cuts and bruises on the face and was placed in the county jail. Miller was not held by the department.

Virgil Tilton, 36, of Circleville, Route 5, was arrested on a charge of driving when intoxicated. Officers reported the auto driven by Tilton and a truck of the Marietta Concrete Co., driven by J. A. Heiss, Beaverly, O., crashed at Routes 56 and 22.

Melvin Johnson, 24, of Paintsville, Ky., was arrested on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Officers reported he had a .32 calibre loaded pistol with him in a W. Main street beer parlor.

Clarence Baker, 27, South Bloomingville, was treated at the hospital for cuts and bruises received in a fight on W. Main street. Police said he was charged with drunkenness.

Claude Imler, 36, S. Pickaway street, was held in the city jail on complaint of his wife.

Many Charges Filed

Other cases and charges listed by the department were: Merle Ankrom, 17, York street, drunk and disorderly, $10 bond; Russell Hall, 47, Circleville, Route 1, intoxication; Ralph Hamilton, 18, Watt street, intoxication, $10 bond; Leonard Gilmore, 52, Darbyville, $2 for incorrect parking and $5 bond on an intoxication charge; Bees Hinton, 47, Williamsport, $5 bond for intoxication; Corney Smith, 22, Paintsville, Ky., intoxication; Cliff Kelly, 41, Route 4, intoxication; John Petrey, 54, Route 5, intoxication; Chalmers Johnson, 21, Paintsville, Ky., intoxication; Edward Sowards, 24, Tungs, Ky., intoxication; Bob Reed, Yellowbud, intoxication, $5 bond; William Briner, 57, city, intoxication, $5 bond; Joe Wilkes, 63, city, intoxication, released; Ben Metzgar, city, drunkenness, $10 bond.

FEDERAL OFFICE PROVIDES HELP FOR OHIO FARMERS

Information for farmers seeking laborers was provided Monday by E. O. Noethlich, area W. P. A. engineer.

The W. P. A. does not have power to assign workers to private individual interests. However, W. P. A. labor can be transferred under conditions to private industry through the National Re-employment Service.

Any Pickaway county farmer needing laborers for farm work should apply for this aid directly to the N. R. S. in Circleville, stipulating the number of men needed. N. R. S. then can requisition the needed labor from W. P. A. rolls in Pickaway county to supply the demand. W. P. A. workers are expected to take temporary jobs in private industry, since they are given preference on re-assignment to W. P. A. jobs when the temporary employment ends.

It is understood, of course, that the private employer pays the wages of labor procured through N. R. S., an agency designed to expedite the return of work relief labor to private industry.

One of the "conditions" stipulates no W. P. A. worker is expected to take private employment paying him less than his hourly rate wage on W. P. A.

Glenn Hay Busy

Met Glenn Hay Saturday who operated a couple of wheat threshing combines during the season, a chick hatchery and hundreds of laying white leghorns and during his spare time sold tons and tons of gravel out of the big bank. And now it is a corn picker. Said he'd let us know when he got it going and we should come out and see it operate. Thought he would have a hundred acres or more to pick.

Visitors in Village

Rev. C. D. and Mrs. Besch drove in from Canton arriving here Friday evening to visit at the home of J. R. Roof, his brother-in-law, who is seriously sick. They returned home Saturday. "Charlie" is yet planning to send us a copy of that Jones' cat poetry which he wrote and printed in the then "great and only" Ashville Enterprise. That has been some fifty years ago, but its age hasn't lessened the interest us Old Timers hold for it.

Interesting Visitor

A car with a Texas license plate attracted more than our usual attention, when "making our rounds" with a hope of finding something we could call news. We started in to give the chap whom we figured owned it, "the third degree" applying several questions, but we hadn't gone far, until we discovered he was a real salesman, willing to talk and tell all about what he was doing and how he happened to be here. With a fine camera he was making a picture of George Kuhn's Clover Farm store. Said his name is Carl Sables and that he and his wife, who travels with him, have no home except his auto and the hotels. They travel over thirty states for the Clover Farm Stores, doing what they call "efficiency work". Said where the store proprietor would permit them to, they instructed him how better to conduct his business. We have met a number of these big territory salesmen, but this one we are telling you about was the real blue ribbon of them all. We shall ask George and Mrs. Kuhn and the young Mr. Younklin just what they thought of him, maybe we are wrong again.

SCHOOL PLACES FIVE COUNTIANS

Teachers, Graduated In Last
Launch Careers

Five Pickaway countians who were graduated from Capital university last Spring start on teaching careers this Fall. The number of teacher placements made by the Bexley school this year sets a record, Dr. William L. Young, dean of Capital's education department, reports. Eighty-seven percent of the 1937 graduates were placed by Sept. 1.

All public school music graduates had positions already early in the Summer. Forty-seven of the class of 48 elementary teachers had schools by Sept. 1.

Included among the Capital placements were Miss Betty Fischer, Jackson township, who becomes a member of the faculty of Malvern high school. At Capital Miss Fischer, who took the four year course, was a member of Kappa Sigma Theta and the nationally-famous Chapel Choir.

Other placements included Miss Marie Briner and Miss Doris Schreiner of Circleville, Miss Frances Malone of Williamsport, and Maynard Campbell of Perry township. They will teach at Mifflin town-

THIRD MAN JOINS RACE FOR MAYOR IN CHILLICOTHE

CHILLICOTHE, Sept. 6.—The race for mayor between James E. Ford, Democrat, and Harold Brown, Republican, was complicated when Edward G. Kunzelman, a Republican, filed an independent petition for the mayor's position.

Political leaders saw the move as a definite "break" for Ford, Kunzelman taking much more strength from Brown than from the Democratic nominee.

ship, Franklin county, Circleville, Frankfort and Salt Creek township, respectively. All four took the elementary training course.

The Capital admissions office has announced that although college classes will begin Sept. 9 the deadline for the admission of new students will be extended until Sept. 20. This measure was taken because of the recent announcement of the state department of education to the effect that teacher training requirements would be raised.

Students who desire to receive training under the present rules must enroll this fall. No more two year training courses will prevail after this year.

LABOR DAY
TODAY Labor takes holiday. Every worker and his best lady, with or without children and grandparents according to his age, goes forth out-doors to have his one last good fling before Autumn closes the season of sun and fun. The worker has earned his holiday.
But he faces a new labor year, and after the picnic dinner there comes time to think and talk with friends. Is Labor gaining? Will rising prices eat up every wage gain? What of the status of Labor as regards capital and the common welfare?
It seems plain that there has been a real advance since the depression, in conditions, perhaps even more than in wages. The real wage goes up or down according to the price level, but bettered conditions tend to become permanent. No workman of today would think of laboring under the conditions which his grandfather took as normal, especially in the matter of hours.
Along with new rights, however, come new responsibilities. The wise workman knows that the public welfare is paramount over the rights of either capital or labor. "United we stand, divided we fall" always was a good motto. When it is applied not only to the union of workers but to the co-operation of labor with capital, and of both with the public of which they both are part, every American may rejoice. In more working groups than ever before, such co-operation is now the order of the day.

ASSISTANT POSTMAN
MINNEAPOLIS boasts of a collie dog that serves as assistant in mail delivery. Twice a day he meets the postman as the latter gets off a street car with his mailbag, and proudly escorts him around his route. If there were a change in postmen, and the dog approved of the new incumbent, there would be no trouble about learning that route. The dog doubtless thinks he's the fellow who's delivering the mail, and the postman is just coming along for the walk.
The case, however, isn't at all singular. Collies often do this sort of thing with great faithfulness. They themselves, when they are free to range, usually develop "beats" of their own, which they cover regularly and uniformly every day, making circuits of perhaps two or three miles.
When you consider the wonderful development of the German shepherd dogs used to guide the blind, it seems as if more fruitful use might be made of this trait in the collies. Their intelligence, resourcefulness and faithfulness are high. They have a remarkable faculty for understanding human speech, greater, in fact, than most humans have for understanding theirs.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour
PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:
Up late after complete success in an effort to catch up on sleep lost in the heat wave. And that, too, as here and there a maple begins donning fall attire. Scanned the paper leisurely and then downtown through a drizzle that disturbed no one.
Noted that the slaughter of non-combatants continues in the Orient. Can not see just what military advantage rests in the murder of women and children, but such procedure apparently is part and parcel of ultra-modern strife. Would not be surprised if in the next great war the opposing forces resort to torture. Both sides, of course, will call on God for divine guidance and pretend to fight for Him.
Another Labor Day and one with more significance than any that have gone before. Truly an occasion for celebration by the working man, what with his retirement pension, job insurance and present-day wage level. And, according to some leaders, this is only the beginning. The scrivener believes that, too, if the government leaves any cash in the business strongboxes. Which it probably will not.

Highly pleased by the President's announced attitude on Americans in the Orient. They remain there at their own risk, and that is as it should be. It is a mighty fine thing to spread Christianity and business, but not at the cost of war. The killing of a few Americans in the Eastern fighting should not be a signal for our war machine to go into action. Always the scrivener has believed it absurd that thousands of lives should be sacrificed because a few have been lost. Something like a foolish man pouring his entire fortune into an investment in which the loss of a few dollars proved beyond all doubt to be worthless. Woodrow Wilson promised to keep us out of the World War and he might have done so if he had assumed the same attitude as Franklin D. Roosevelt and told Americans to remain home where they belong in time of strife.
Received a card from George Stebleton, the Kroger manager, who is vacationing near St. Cloud, Minn. "Wish you could try this fishing. Have been throwing back all pike and pickerel under five pounds," he wrote. "It may be so, but I don't know, it sounds so mighty queer," as we sang during the last war.

There it goes, the mercury, into the lower temperature levels on a trail blazing expedition. A great relief from the super heat of recent days. Chatted with Pat Kirwin, home from Cincinnati for the week-end.
Few citizens on the pave, but the highways crowded with folk headed away from home for the two day holiday. Shocked by the tragic accident that cost the life of Ohio State's great gridiron star, Bill Booth.
In the late afternoon to the cinema, laughing at Jack Benny and Ben Blue. An evening reading "Mrs. Astor's Horse," which is not about Mrs. Astor's horse at all, but the foibles of folk in the public eye. Interesting, but one learns little, if anything from it.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round
By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
REMOVAL ENDS PATRONAGE ROW
WASHINGTON—The President wielded a long overdue broom when he swept Commissioner Vincent Miles from the Social Security Board, also when he appointed Frank McNinch chairman of the Federal Communications Commission and Commander T. A. M. Craven a member.
The FCC has been in sore need of a house-cleaning for several years, and in the SSB Miles had been at loggerheads with his colleagues almost from the day he took office.
A former Arkansas lawyer with coal company clients, Miles was named to the Social Security Board at the behest of the late Senator Joe Robinson. The report at the time was that Robinson got him the job in order to keep Miles from running against him in the 1936 election.
On the Board, Miles warred almost continuously with his fellow members. The chief bone of contention was patronage. The Board has been adamant in opposing the politicalizing of its staff and has insisted on selecting its personnel strictly on merit. Miles wanted to play ball with the job-grabbers on Capitol Hill.
Friends of former Chairman John Winant attribute the able New Hampshire Republican's refusal to accept reappointment to his difficulties with Miles.
Miles also aroused the hostility of labor by secretly lobbying against the Guffey coal bill.
Miss Molly Dewson, Miles' successor, is a distinct improvement. Although in politics for the last few years as chief of the Women's Division of the Democratic National Committee, she has had extensive experience in welfare administration. She prepared the economic brief for the defense of the District of Columbia minimum wage law in 1922. She is also noted for exceptional ability as an organizer.

FCC CHAOS
The Federal Communications Commission was recently described by a White House official as the "No. 1 mess of the Government."
In no other agency has there been so much dissension, turmoil, incompetence and politics. Some of the commissioners are not even on speaking terms. When they have to communicate with one another, they do so through their secretaries.
As a result of this personal wrangling, effective regulation of the radio, telephone and telegraph industries has bogged down to where it is practically non-existent. Vice Chairman Irvin Stewart became so disgusted that he refused reappointment last spring.
One cause of friction was the publicity-seeking antics of certain officials. Chief source of trouble, however, was the policy pursued toward the big radio broadcasting chains.
Several commissioners charge that the networks wield undue influence in the Commission. Whether this is true or not, it is a fact that the chains have got practically everything they want from the Commission. Of the 40 cleared channels in the U. S., only one is allotted to an independent station.

Near-Sightedness, Astigmatism Affect Eyes
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
YESTERDAY WE pointed out that good vision doesn't always mean healthy eyes; that a child may be able to focus and read a test chart perfectly and yet be putting his eyes on a strain. The three kinds of eyestrain are far-sightedness, near-sightedness and astigmatism.
We considered far-sightedness yesterday and pointed out that the far-sighted child often goes for a long time before his condition is suspected because he can always, by straining his focusing muscles, bring the image in his retina.
The near-sighted child is not able to do this, because in his case the eyeball is too long and the image falls in front of the retina. Straining on the lens simply pulls it further forward. In the far-sighted child the eyeball is short and with the lens at rest the image falls behind the retina, but he can always pull it onto the retina by thickening his lens with his ciliary muscle.
Since the near-sighted child can not achieve clear vision in this way, his defect is readily detected from his actions. His only method of accommodation is to bring an object closer to his eyes. He can do this with a book, but not with a factory chimney a mile away.
Astigmatism is lack of complete regularity of the surface of the optical tract. This is a difficult ideal. There are very few eyes that have not some astigmatism. The word means "not a point", which signifies that the images on the retina are not as sharp in outline as they should be.
Unless the astigmatism is extreme this results in little visual embarrassment. There is a great deal of fussy nonsense practiced in putting eyeglasses on children for astigmatism who really don't need them at all. In fact, would be better off without them, as it affects their personalities, making them priggish, or neurotic, or self-conscious as the case may be. If suggestion is used any child can drum up a headache to blame on astigmatism. Extreme cases, of course, do have symptoms and need correction.

NATURE
As a fond mother, when the day is o'er,
Leads by the hand her little child to bed,
Half willing, half reluctant to be led,
And leave his broken playthings on the floor,
Still gazing at them through the open door,
Nor wholly reassured and comforted
By promises of others in their stead,
Which, though more splendid, may not please him more;
So Nature deals with us, and takes away
Our playthings one by one, and by the hand
Leads us to rest so gently, that we go Scarce knowing if we wish to go or stay,
Being too full of sleep to understand How far the unknown transcends the what we know.
—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

RUSTLE OF SILKS
CHAPTER 42
LARRY HOLK said it was like winning a world's championship, like being the author of the best seller, like being the mother of quintuplets! To be commissioned to costume the play of the season in New York for the most widely heralded actress was an accomplishment.
And Mari decided that her clothes would be talked about. She left the villa, still filled with guests, and went directly to Paris with Carla. She harried herself in her home and had fabrics sent to her there. And then for nearly seven days she sketched, discarded her sketches and made new ones. She read Carla's play, demanded that Carla do scenes after scene for her until she herself became the woman in the play. Until she felt in her very deepest heart, every shading of emotion that Carla was to portray.
And when her spirit was permeated with it, she began to make the sketches that she wanted, the costumes that were a part of the mood. Therein lay Mari Bara's art. She was no mere dress designer then. Her lines sprung from an inspiration that was deeper than the mind alone.
There was a gown of misty blue-black with a sweep of magenta. There was rich brocade and regal velvet. There was tenderness in the daffodil yellow, and passion in the deep purple.
And all the while that Mari labored for perfection, she was selfless. But when the gowns were finished, she knew that she had seen some of her heart in them. For now Tony Castle would see them; would know that "the untired girl" had produced a work of art.
Carla had said generously that her costumes were as great as her role, that they'd demand more applause than her acting.
That wasn't true of course, but that her costumes were a sensation was true.
Again there were the cables from America. Cables of congratulation, cables containing offers from other actresses, other producers and four contracts offered from Hollywood. There were notes from unknown admirers. And treasured most, a hesitant, shy letter from a girl in New York named Louise O'Brien.
That letter Mari read over and over again. At first it had puzzled her. She knew no one named O'Brien. And, at last, when she realized it had come from the model who had been her friend at Castle's shop, she treasured it.
Surely if Louise had seen and heard of her clothes and had written to her, Tony would do no less. Tony could not disregard her now! He must, if only out of professional courtesy, write her a congratulatory note.
Weeks, months passed after the opening in New York. There was never any word from Tony.
Mari ceased to run through her mail, separating that from America and then, slowly and with high hopes, set it aside, letter by letter. With fingers that trembled she opened those envelopes that gave no clue to the writer.
At last she knew it would not come. She settled back into the calm that was neither happy nor unhappy.
She had her work. And that year, she had labor troubles. Hesitant because she was not a Parisian, she deputized her representatives to draw up a code that was to be accepted and right the difficulties. That move was to make her position more secure and later—
In the meantime, like so many

women whose cup is filled to brimming, but tasteless, she traveled. She took a North Cape cruise. She went to St. Moritz for the winter sports; to England for the races and to renew her first friendship with Ellen Verlaque. She went to Scotland to shoot grouse, and to Salzburg to the opera festival.
She refused a proposal of marriage from an English lord with the same grace that she refused the Italian composer. She told the young French flyer whose plane she christened that, of course, she believed he was making the flight for her alone, but refused the diamond bracelet he wanted to give her.
She was hostess at a ball given by an Indian Maharaja and accepted the priceless, crested cigarette box he offered her. She accepted, without ever thinking of them, the constant attentions of Mark Sutherland who was a quieter, less mature person than she had thought him when she first knew him.
She moved in the smartest of continental society, wore clothes that were the envy of every woman who saw her, and became more beautiful and brittle with the passing of time.
She went to Cairo with Mark and Ellen. Long since, she had lost her bright feeling of anticipation when she embarked upon a journey. But she was touched and inspired by the beauty of the Orient.
Every scene, so different from the accustomed panorama, inspired a color combination, a motif with which you are since familiar.
Going by boat to Alexandria, from her deck chair she saw a dusky maiden waving a scarf from beneath a palm tree on an island in the Azores. Hastily her sketch book came out. She would print a fabric in brown and red and orange. She must experiment with dyes, get a combination to give white the strange cool greenish tinge of pineapple. You remember "pineapple white"? When she heard that there were seals and rare birds—seals in the tropics!—at Madeira, she resolved to make amusing buttons of black wood, shaped like seals and cleverly treated to have their sleekness.

So it was wherever she went. It was the machine in her, and not the woman, who made much of the beauty that should have held her spellbound.
She looked for designs everywhere. The only time that she was stirred deeply was when she realized that she rode the same waters that Antony and Cleopatra had sailed thousands of years before. She thought of Caesar and Zenobia, and wondered if duLac would have her shipment of ordered skins from Russia when she returned.
On the delta she saw the natives driving their water buffalo, camels and donkeys. She heard the ever present chanting of the blacks, the turbaned youth that served her.
Unmoved she looked upon the indescribable beauty of Egyptian nights—palm fronds stirring, silhouetted against the yellow eastern sky. She heard the weird music of cymbals as slowly moving figures sang on the river's brink.
Once, sitting on deck, watching the skies turn from lilac to purple, watching the mimosa trees and date palms grow black, she saw great white cranes rise and wheel against the dark sky, and felt the impact of beauty with unbearable poignancy.
"What next?" she whispered aloud.
Mark was sitting beside her. "So you're not satisfied yet? Why not try a look-see at your home town? There's been many a skyscraper put up since you turned your back on it."
"New York?" Mari felt suddenly breathless. She had never admitted that she was still running away. But why should she now? She could return in triumph. It was exciting! She wished her visit to Cairo were not just beginning. She must go to New York.
(To Be Continued)

A Polish chess champion went insane after losing a game which lasted 60 hours. Nothing, so far, is known of the fate of the spectators.
Things certainly are booming in New York. The day the Giants moved into first place in the National league, their manager, Bill Terry, was signed to a five-year contract with a raise.
It's a five-way tie for the title of world's champion hostess. A news story reveals that the Dionne quintuplets entertained—without knowing it—138,660 guests last month.

Monday Club to Study Modern Women's Work

First Meeting of Fall Arranged Sept. 13

The Monday Club, one of the outstanding women's organizations of Circleville, will have its year's work on the study of the Pursuits of Modern Women. The first Fall meeting will be Sept. 13.

The club was organized in 1890 and was affiliated with the National Federation of Women's clubs in 1893 and with the State Federation in 1894. Each year programs are arranged for the club work and divisions arranged and chairmen appointed to carry out the plans of the program committee.

The divisions and chairmen as contained in the attractive programs presented club members at the last meeting in June, include Home Arts and Decoration, Miss Carrie Johnson, chairman; Literature — Drama, Mrs. Tom A. Renick, chairman; Studies of Women in Careers, Miss Jeanette Rowe, chairman. The Music Division will be under the leadership of Mrs. Melvin Yates.

The officers of the club are Mrs. G. D. Phillips, president; Mrs. C. C. Watts, first vice president; Mrs. J. H. Dunlap, Sr., second vice president; Mrs. Emmitt L. Crist, recording secretary; Mrs. Hulse Hays, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Ione Reichelderfer, treasurer. The members of the executive committee are the officers of the club; Miss Margaret Rooney, chairman of the program committee; Mrs. Fred Griner, retiring president; Mrs. Charles May, member at large, and Miss Mary Wilder, librarian. The program committees are Mrs. Ray W. Davis, Mrs. John Eshelman and Mrs. Robert Musser, 1937-1938. Miss Margaret Rooney, Mrs. Florence R. Jones and Mrs. Clark Will, 1938-1939. The reporters are Mrs. Paul Johnson and Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, Home Arts and Decoration; Mrs. E. F. Anderson and Miss Margaret Dunlap, Literature-Drama; Miss Jeanette Reichelderfer and Miss Margaret Mattinson, Women in Careers; Mrs. R. P. Reid and Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, Music and Mrs. Howard Jones, historian.

The year's work begins with a comparison of the status of women at home and abroad, continuing with evenings devoted to the work of modern women writers, musicians and artists. The women of today in the world movements are to be studied, and the experiences of women who make home arts and decoration their interest will be discussed. Five guest speakers will give interesting talks at different meetings during the winter, and four musical evenings are planned. The program as arranged for the year is comprehensive and will afford much pleasure for the club members as it touches on subjects of direct appeal to all.

Youth Expressed in New Winter Coats

Gail Patrick poses in black broadcloth coat with back and sleeves of Persian lamb.

Fur, Fabric Combined In Clever Style

YOUTH IS expressed not only in the new fur coats, but in the fur-trimmed models. It is essentially a youthful season—and that is not saying that there are not plenty of coats for the older woman to wear. She can, as a matter of fact, wear almost any of them, because the youthful feeling is inherent in line and trim, not in anything that is appropriate only to the young.

Fur and fabric, for instance, are cleverly combined, in the smart town coat worn by Gail Patrick, left. The entire back and sleeves of this coat are of black Persian lamb, but the sides have godets of black broadcloth which give it an entirely new effect in skirt fullness. Smart and youthful, you see, but nothing about it that even a gray-haired woman could not wear.

In the picture at the right Gail Patrick wears one of those smart swagger coats that are as breezy as a winter zephyr and much more comfortable. It is one of the new novelty furs of the season, called "Tahmi", and belonging to the mutton family. The color is a soft butter shade, particularly smart when contrasted with a costume of black or dark brown. Notice the jaunty hat with its fancy trimming and down-turned brim.

Lengths Up and Down

Fur coats this year experience the ups and downs of life. The short jacket type is more popular than it has been for a long time, and that goes for both day and evening wear. Then there is the full-length coat, as usual, three-quarters, seven-eighths, all in new stylings, and with the same youthful air that, as I said before, distinguishes all of them this season.

It is peculiar that so many of the long coats are slim and most of the short ones voluminous in silhouette. Browns and grays are important in the color line, and browns vary from very dark Persian lamb—very smart—to such shades as this light butter color.

Sports coat in novelty fur called "Tahmi" in butter shade, worn by Gail Patrick

RED BIRDS TAKE THREE GAME LEAD OVER ASSOCIATION OPPONENTS

JOHN CHAMBERS HURLS SPEEDING NINE TO VICTORY

Team Plays Toledoans Two Games Monday; Millers Lose To Apostles

KLEINHANS IN RARE FORM
Buck Marrow Scores Real Game, Too

BY UNITED PRESS
The Columbus Red Birds were more securely entrenched in the American Association league lead today, after beating the third place Toledo Mud Hens, one of their two rivals in the stretch drive for the pennant.
The second-place Minneapolis Millers lost to the St. Paul Saints. John Chambers was a master all the way in the Columbus victory, 6 to 1. He was headed for his fifth shut-out of the year when Ed Coleman hit a ninth inning Toledo home run.
Bill Norman was an enigma to Minneapolis pitchers and his two home runs were responsible for five tallies in the St. Paul victory, 6 to 5. Landrum also hit a homer for the winners.
Kansas City relied on Ted Kleinhans, southpaw pitcher recently purchased by Cincinnati to win from Milwaukee 3 to 0. Kleinhans held the Brewers to a pair of one base hits. The Blues made 14 hits.
A Louisville pitcher, Buck Marrow, also turned in a shutout, scattering four Indianapolis hits in his team's 4 to 0 victory. The second game was a 3 to 3 tie, called because of the Sunday closing law.

Today's Schedule
(All Double Headers)
Kansas City at Milwaukee.
St. Paul at Minneapolis (morning); Minneapolis at St. Paul (afternoon).
Louisville at Indianapolis.

New York York Teams Hold Lead In Both Leagues

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(UP)—The major leagues, offering their usual Labor Day doubleheaders, presented today a surprising replica of the 1936 pennant race picture.
Both New York teams are out in front—not as far as they were at this time last year, but far enough to send hopes of New Yorkers soaring in the direction of another subway series.

The Giants a year ago were three games out in front. Today they are two games ahead of the Chicago Cubs, and if the holiday gods treat them as well as a year ago they will beat the Philadelphia Phillies twice and increase their margin.

Standings
Club	Won	Lost	Pct.
New York	44	43	.507
Chicago	38	51	.429
St. Louis	36	58	.383
Pittsburgh	37	59	.385
Boston	31	63	.329
Brooklyn	32	60	.348
Philadelphia	31	61	.337
Cincinnati	29	71	.290

At this stage of the marathon last year the Yankees were 17 games ahead of the pack. Today they are 11 on top the Detroit Tigers but that is still enough of a margin not to cause Jacob Ruppert any worry as to whether he will be able to view at least half the world series from his private box in Yankee stadium.
The Giants were idle yesterday, their twin-bill with Boston being rained out, but their lead was increased a full game when Chicago dropped both ends of its double matinee to the Pittsburgh Pirates. The veteran Red Lucas scored a 7-0 shutout in the opener when he scattered six hits. The Pirates took the nightcap 4-1 on four hits, and the game was played under Chicago protest because of a misunderstanding decision by Umpire Lee Ballafant. With the bases loaded and a ground ball hit to Herman, Pitcher Ed Brandt was ruled out for running outside the baseline from first to second, thus nullifying the force-play on Brubaker at the plate. It was Chicago's 14th loss in 21 games.
St. Louis Cards remained nine games from the top by dividing a pair with Cincinnati. A three run spurge in the sixth inning of the opener on singles by Myer and Schott, a double by Walker and another one-bagger by Goodman gave Cincinnati all of their runs in winning a 3-2 decision. Lon Warneke and Al Hollingsworth each pitched four-hit ball in the nightcap duel, and Cincinnati's only error of the day paved the way for St. Louis' 1-0 triumph. Riggs juggled Medwick's double play ball with the bases loaded in the third frame, Terry Moore scoring from third.

Brooklyn poled out 12 hits off Walters, Kellher and Jorgenson for a 6-4 victory, and the nightcap was rained out. Klein and Camilli clouted four-baggers for Philadelphia.
In the American league the Yankees increased their margin a full game by blasting the Washington Senators, 10-5, Gehrig homering. The runner-up Tigers dropped a 5-2 decision to the Chicago White Sox. York clouted his 31st homer of the season for Detroit.
Cleveland stopped St. Louis twice, 9-5, and 2-1. Denny Galehouse distributed 10 hits to the opener with the aid of his mates' 17-hit attack, which included Trosky's homer with two aboard. A walk to Averill and Trosky's long double pushed over the winning run for Earl Whitehill in the second game.

NATIONAL LEAGUE		gave Cincinnati all of their runs in winning a 3-2 decision. Lon Warneke and Al Hollingsworth each pitched four-hit ball in the nightcap duel, and Cincinnati's only error of the day paved the way for St. Louis' 1-0 triumph. Riggs juggled Medwick's double play ball with the bases loaded in the third frame, Terry Moore scoring from third.

RAIN POSTPONES NATIONAL TENNIS TITLE CONTESTS

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(UP)—Double work was scheduled for the tennis stars of seven nations playing for the national singles title.
Rain, which regularly disrupts the nationals, washed out all competition yesterday, but it also brought much lower temperatures that were more to the liking of the foreign entrants who have complained bitterly of the heat that prevailed during the first three days of play.
One of those expected to benefit most was the Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, Germany's top netman and second favorite to capture the men's title. He faced Hal Surface of Kansas City in a fourth-round match today.

Another of the foreign delegation who regarded the cooler weather a God-send was Senorita Anita Lizana of Chile. "I am not accustomed to such heat," the Santiago girl said. "I am lucky to win one match." Second-seeded among the foreign women, Anita plays Carolin Babcock of Los Angeles today.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—(UP)—Katherine Rawls, Miami, Fla., won her third A. A. U. women's swimming championship in the national meet at Fleishacker pool Sunday when she swam the 440-yard event in 5 minutes, 36 seconds.
Iris Cummings, Los Angeles, retained her title in the 220-yard breast stroke event. Her time was 3:16.9.
Erna Kompa, New York, took the 220-yard backstroke title from Eleanor Holm Jarrett. Her time was 2:57.5.
Final events in the women's national A. A. U. competitions will be held today.

Gambling Profits Up
PARIS (UP)—French casinos made a total net profit of 135,854,100 francs (about $6,792,700) in 1936, according to figures just made public. This year's increase in foreign tourist traffic is expected to make the profits of 1937 even higher.

Aids Shingle Hangers
TOLEDO (UP)—The University of Toledo will offer this winter a new study course entitled "Practicing Law." It will be an evening subject which, according to Dean Charles Racine, is the first of its kind attempted by a law school. The new study is to aid new lawyers and brush up older ones.

Lived 123 Years
HYDERABAD, India (UP)—Zorawar Kahn has just died here at the age of 123 years. Eight years ago he was married for the third time. He had two children by his previous wives.

About This And That In Many Sports

Bill Booth's Dead

Some things happen in the world of sports, that no matter how near or personal they may be, they make one almost shed tears : : : Such an instance is the death of Bill Booth, one of Ohio's finest high school athletes while at East Liverpool and destined to become a football star in the Big Ten : : : Wet highways, a skid, and a crash resulted in his untimely death near Steubenville Saturday evening : : : Bill Booth was counted on to play left halfback for the Bucks next Fall, and he would have been an outstanding gridder : : : The same thing happened at Purdue last Fall, you recall, when deaths followed a locker room explosion. * * *

Birds Are Enroute

The Red Birds are on their way toward an American Association pennant if they can make a good showing this afternoon against the Mudhens from Toledo-way : : : The Birds won Sunday, and the Hens seemed down in the dumps, but you never can tell about Fred Haney's aggregation especially if he fires his two southpaw aces, Sullivan and Hatter, at the Birds : : : Shotten expects to use the dizzy type, too, with Macon and Lanier nominated. * * *

Cubs in Difficulty

The Chicago Cubs are on the downgrade, it would seem, but their supporters point to the fact that they still have 20 games to play at home : : : However, they played at home Sunday but Pittsburgh knocked off a double bill putting the Giants two full games in front : : : The Cincis and Cards played a picture doublebill, splitting the honors. * * *

Playoff Begins Tuesday

The football league playoff starts Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock with Cooper Oils of Commercial Point taking on the Container Corporation of America : : : The first team to win three games is decided the Tri-County loop titlists : : : Smoky Williams and Leonard Buskirk will be the opposing hurlers : : : Art Walker, stellar Cooper Oil third sacker, may be out of the lineup : : : He took a slice out of his leg last week with a corn knife. * * *

Golfers Matched

First flight: John Jenkins vs. George Speakman; C. Gilt vs. D. C. Black; Mack Mader vs. N. E. Reichelderfer; John Bragg vs. Tom Gilliland; C. T. Gilmore vs. John Eshelman; G. D. Phillips vs. Frank Marlow : : : Russ Imler scored another eagle on the club course last week, sinking a No. 5 iron shot on No. 6 green for a deuce : : : Bill Crist tallied one on No. 1 the same evening. * * *

TALES in TIDBITS

By BILL BRAUCHER

Expert Praises Tresh; Joey Jacobs Laughs; York Garage Mechanic

Tom Laird, San Francisco writer who seldom makes a mistake in sizing up a ball player, brings word that Mike Tresh, who is catching for Oakland, will make the Tigers next year, or else... the "or else" in this case is a guy named Rully York, who has been doing a dandy job for the Bengals since putting on the mask... One of the reasons for Al Weill's success as a matchmaker is that he never would let a manager talk (or buy) his fighter into a bout... Weill, who now is Mike Jacobs' chief assistant, matches them the way he sees them, and he sees them with a sharp eye... he is probably the only promoter who was able to put on fights during the depression period and make money.

Squire (Battling Burleigh) Grimes of the Dodgers has been letting his temper get away with him in his handling of the team... the other day First Baseman Buddy Hassett was removed from the game because he blew a twisting bunt... Grimes roared at the youngster... and Hassett roared back... the dear old Dodgers still are the dear old Dodgers... Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling whenever Max isn't managing himself (on alternate Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays) says the biggest laugh he got this year was the statement issued by the Twentieth Century club concerning that series of elimination bouts "between fellows like Braddock, Schmeling, Baer, Pastor and Farr" to select an opponent for Joe Louis... says Joe, "That's like saying

EUROPEAN SPEED BOATS CONTEST IN CUP EVENTS
DETROIT, Sept. 6.—(UP)—Three European powerboats that resemble stream-lined flatirons and are equally as hot under pressure of expert mechanics and drivers are expected to blast existing records of the sky today when ten hydroplanes answer the starting cannon for the first International Gold Cup race.
The gold cup event is 34 years old but it takes on an international flavor this year for the first time. Two snappy boats from Italy and another from France responded readily when American power boat moguls decided this year to allow foreign craft to compete for the famous trophy. And their acceptance of the American invitation is likely to mean a European winner this year.
Count Theo Rossi De Montelera, wealthy Turin, Italy, Vermouth maker and former officer in the Italo-Ethiopian war, has two boats tuned for the starting gun. The count himself will be at the controls of the Alagi, faster of the two, while his pal, Guido Cattaneo, designer of the boats, will wheel the Aradam. Powered by Isotta Fraschini engines used by Italo Balbo's planes in his mass flight from Italy to America, the Alagi and Aradam on paper are faster than any American boats. The Alagi holds an unofficial world record of 90.97 miles an hour.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

CONTRACT BRIDGE

IN NO TRUMP contracts, it is sometimes amazing to notice how important it is to have the right partner be the declarer. Frequently 3-No Trumps can be made if it is played from one side of the table, whereas there is not an earthly chance if the hand be played from the other side. Players with aces as single stoppers of suits should exert every resource to cause the hand to be played by their partners, whereas those who have kings and queens should bend their efforts toward becoming declarers themselves.

Atlanta, Ga., who sat in the North position. She realized that, if the hand ended in no trump, she would prefer to have her partner play it. She therefore started with 1-Club and over South's 1-Diamond she bid 1-Spade. When South now bid 2-No Trumps, she took it to three. The lead against this was the heart J, which was captured with the Q. The spade Q was captured with the K, a heart return refused and then the heart A forced. After running five diamonds, West's discards left him with the spade A, the heart 10 and the K-9 of clubs. After cashing his two winners, he was obliged to lead away from his club K, so that 3-No Trumps was made. With North playing the contract and the club J being led, the contract cannot possibly be made.

Tomorrow's Problem

♠ 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♠ Q J 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♠ Q J 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♠ Q J 8 7 6 5 4 3 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

This deal came up in a recent duplicate and the success of the contract depended upon North's opening bid, after passes by South and West.

In several instances North's bid was 1-No Trump and, after 3-Diamonds by South, the contracts ended in 3-No Trumps.

MANSFIELD MAN NAMED IN DEATH OF HITCH-HIKER

Term of Court To Begin At 9 A. M. As 14 Cases Are Considered

MANY CHARGES MINOR

Complaints of Assault and Battery Listed

Fourteen cases were on file Monday for consideration by grand jurors when they start their first session of the September term of court Tuesday morning.

One important case for consideration is a charge of second degree manslaughter against Robert Frye, 28, of Mansfield, resulting from the traffic death of Miss Elsie Harvey, 18, of Wharton, W. Va., June 27.

Miss Harvey died of injuries after she was struck by Frye's auto on Route 23, south of Circleville. She was walking along the highway, believed to have been hitch-hiking to her home. Frye is alleged to have made a wide swing on a curve. He is at liberty under $1,000 bond.

Other cases listed included five assault and battery charges, two on reckless operation of motor vehicles, two forgeries, three statutory offenses and one charge of receiving stolen property.

Those to report for jury duty are Orville Baker, Irene Trone and Frank Henson, Walnut township; Robert Walker, Scioto township; Jess Rose and Gus Steinhauser, Deercreek township; W. H. Graessle and Reay Ridgeway, Darby township; Orren Updyke, Circleville township; Mabel Croman, Washington township; Harry C. Johnson and John Seimer, Third Ward; Bess Lilly and Grace G. Dunlap, First Ward.

our campaigns of organization," he said, "the newly organized must be taught that collective bargaining is one of the ends to be achieved. They must be taught that the methods of collective bargaining include the faithful observance of all agreements entered into with employers."

They must be taught that in the practice of collective bargaining, which establishes the relationship between wage earners and their employers, there is involved the largest measure of self-government in industry.

"They must be taught to deal with their employers on a basis of understanding and a method of contact with them which will lead employers to place greater faith in collective bargaining, so that many who have been hostile to organization among their employees will learn that through collective bargaining many of their major problems can be adjusted and solved."

JOHN WELCH, CITY NATIVE, DIES AT 83 NEAR GALENA

John Welch, 83, a native and former resident of Circleville, died Saturday night at his home near Galena after a stroke suffered six weeks ago.

He was a son of James and Ellen Welch. Surviving are his widow, Agnes McKenzie Welch, and a brother, Edward, of Columbus.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 9 a. m. in Westerville.

$10, COSTS PAID

James Travis, 51, of Ashland, Ky., paid a fine of $10 and costs to H. O. Eveland, Saturday night, on an intoxication charge. He was arrested by the sheriff's department.

parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orion King, W. High street.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ward, of Scioto township, were business visitors in Circleville, Saturday.

Mrs. C. D. Bennett motored her daughter Marianne Bennett to Frankfort Monday where she will teach third and fourth grades in the public schools.

COUNTY SCHOOL CLASSES START

Washington C. H., and that the other school boards were willing to approve him. Warren, who had much success last year—his first, resigned because of ill health.

Several of the buildings have undergone some changes, and Darby township pupils returned to find a new and modern structure awaiting them. Supt. Brice Connell has headed the Darby schools for several years.

Monroe, Saltcreek and Duvall buildings were redecorated, while New Holland did some renovation work in its elementary building.

Enrollment Lower

School enrollment, when all pupils are finally registered, will be slightly lower than a year ago. The 1936-37 total was 4,333 pupils, while enumeration figures reached only 3,998 for 1937-38. Children between ages of five and 18 were counted. No specific reason was cited for the reduction other than the possibility that some of the families had removed to cities.

"Pickaway county expects an excellent school year," Supt. McDowell said Monday. "Practically all of the schools are in sound financial condition; nearly all have completed their teaching and administrative staffs. Many changes have been made in the teaching roster, but in none of the instances has the county system suffered. We have lost many fine educators to larger schools, but we have succeeded in electing other efficient persons to fill their positions."

Attention was called to the fact that several of the schools districts are seeking support at the Nov. 2 election for bond issue to help them expand. The Deercreek township district is asking $30,000 to provide an addition; Wayne township wants an additional room and an issue of $3,000, and Scioto expects a three mill levy to be approved to finance the operating expenses.

Administrators Listed

The schools and their administrators are:

Darby: Brice Connell, superintendent; Leonard L. Hill, principal. Deercreek: H. L. Sams, superintendent; Karl F. Huls, principal. Harrison township (Duvall): Eunice P. Dennis, principal. Harrison: (South Bloomfield); Karl O. Drum, principal. Jackson: Pielgord Hansen, superintendent; Carroll Woodruff, principal.

Madison: Theodore E. Snyder, principal. Monroe: George H. Broles, superintendent; Bron tSoer, principal. Muhlenberg: Russell F. Stebelton, superintendent; Bernard Burdette, principal.

Perry: R. H. Sponsler, superintendent; principal not yet determined. Pickaway: Myron T. Johnson, superintendent; Carl Burger, principal. Saltcreek: Harold L. Strous, superintendent; principal not determined. Scioto: Ralph A. Francis, superintendent; Raymond L. Snavely, principal.

Walnut: Carl D. Bennett, superintendent; Judson Lanman, principal. Washington: A. Wendell Boyer, superintendent; John A. Florence, principal.

Wayne: George W. Mallett, principal. Ashville: Carl A. Higley, superintendent; Ernest F. Martin, principal.

New Holland: Harold K. Costlow, superintendent; Bernard E. Warner, principal. Tarlton: Wilbur J. Kuhn, principal.

MRS. DEWEY WINS THREE TONS OF COAL IN CONTEST

Mrs. Kenneth Dewey, 721 S. Court street, was announced Monday as the winner of three tons of coal in a contest conducted last week by the Stevenson Furniture Co.

A large number of persons participated in the contest, conducted in connection with the company's sale on Estate Heatrolas.

his car had bumped a child, but when he returned to the scene of the accident the girl had left. The girl's name was reported as Arledge. She is believed to live near Stoutsville.

Walter L. Halstead, 27, of 1404 Indianola avenue, Columbus, and Earl Smith, 35, of Bremen, were arrested by the sheriff's department Saturday night on Route 23, near the Gold Cliff Chateau, after an auto in which they were riding went into a ditch.

Halstead paid a fine of $5 and costs to H. O. Eveland, justice of peace, Sunday night, for intoxication and disorderly conduct.

Smith denied a charge of driving when intoxicated and his hearing was set for Wednesday at 10 a. m. Charges were filed by Miller M. Fissell, deputy sheriff.

An auto driven by John Carmean, 70, of Williamsport, and one driven by Wayne Clum, 23, of 2110 St. James avenue, Cincinnati, collided Saturday afternoon on Route 22 about two miles west of Circleville. No one was hurt.

Miss Louise Hamilton, 30, Portsmouth, was treated at Berger hospital for cuts on the left arm received in an auto accident Sunday morning. She was discharged after treatment. County officers said they were not called to investigate the mishap.

Autos driven by B. F. Ward, Route 2, Circleville, and George F. Kennedy, 114 E. Auburn street, Bellefontaine, sideswiped on Route 56 west of the city Sunday noon. No one was injured.

A colored couple of Portsmouth escaped injury Saturday afternoon when the auto in which they were riding on the Kingston pike skidded, went through a fence at the farm of Orin Dreisbach, and overturned.

announcement said foreign shipping would continue to be exempted and that the blockade would not apply to special foreign areas such as the Great British port of Hong Kong.

The first action under the extended blockade, however, was the seizure of two Chinese customs cruisers near Hong Kong by a Japanese destroyer. The Japanese pursuit of the two Chinese vessels was reported to have extended into British waters, giving rise to the possibility of further international complications.

2. The Chinese foreign office announced that China has decided to make a formal appeal to the League of Nations against the Japanese aggression.

3. The Japanese drive toward rich Shantung province in north China began with an attack on Chinese positions in Machang, north of the Yellow river.

4. Japanese continued to extend the war front in southern China. Chinese sources said Japanese warships had shelled Sanwei, 80 miles north of Hong Kong and had tried to land troops.

5. China sought further to unite every segment of the nation by making Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek supreme dictator and creating a war council.

6. Neither China nor Japan replied formally to the request of the United States and other powers that they move their forces out of the Shanghai area. But the renewal of fighting on a terrific scale gave evidence that the request would go unheeded. United States officials again appealed to all Americans to flee from the danger zones before the routes to evacuation points on the coast are closed.

In the mid-afternoon fighting in the Shanghai area was particularly bitter in the vicinity of the civic center.

'MESS', SAYS F. D. OF WAR BETWEEN CHINA AND JAPAN

WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IN LONG ISLAND SOUND, Sept. 6 — (UP) — President Roosevelt feels that the Sino-Japanese warfare has become so critical that the United States no longer can assume responsibility for American citizens who remain in the war zone.

Describing the Oriental situation as an awful mess, the president again urged all Americans to leave the danger areas. U. S. naval forces now in Chinese waters, he said, are sufficient to evacuate the 7780 Americans still there. Those who choose to remain, must do so at their own risk. Because many of them are in locations far from the sea where travel is slow, they will be given ample time, however, to reach embarkation points on the coast.

the District of Columbia Saturday and Sunday. Michigan and California reported 21 automobile deaths for the two days, and Illinois 13 and New York 12.

Two navy fliers were killed when their plane crashed into an open field near Friendsville, Md. A licensed flier and a student were killed in an attempted takeoff at Minneapolis, Minn.

Two golfers and two caddies were killed by lightning when they sought refuge from a storm under a tree on a Pittsburgh course. Another caddy fell into a flooded ditch and drowned, at Meadville, Pa. Lightning killed Henry Lamonte Bole, in Lemhi, Ida.

Carl Yeargin executed himself in a trailer in Los Angeles, with an ingenious apparatus patterned after that used in lethal gas chambers. A man leaped to his death from the 24th floor of Louisiana's state house in Baton Rouge.

JAPS SAY COMMUNISTS CONTROL CHINESE ARMY

TOKYO, Sept. 6.—(UP)—Communist elements have obtained virtually complete control of the Chinese military forces, Foreign Minister Koki Hirota asserted today in an address to the budget committee of the lower house of the Japanese parliament.

During the decade, 1927-1937, flying time has been reduced from single-engine plane schedules of 33 hours with 14 stops to 15 hours and three stops. The single-engine plane cruised at a mere 95 miles an hour and the two-engine present-day planes have a cruising speed of 200 miles an hour.

Nearly 4,000 Children Resume School Work

A vacation had ended, and nearly all of Pickaway county's 4,000 boys and girls of school age had answered the call of the roll Monday morning when all but a few schools resumed classes. The remainder will start Tuesday morning, boards of education of Pickaway, Monroe, Harrison township, and Ashville preferring to grant their pupils the Labor Day vacation.

Circleville opens its 38-week schedule next Monday morning. Willing and unwilling farm and village boys and girls ended their three-month vacations Monday morning. Buses made their regular runs, and full programs of reading, riting, and arithmetic were outlined for the year. All the schools that started their sessions adjourned at noon with instructions to the pupils to be prepared for real work Tuesday morning. No pupils carried lunches Monday, but all were expected to on Tuesday, or else go without food.

TOKYO'S TROOPS REPORT WALLED TOWN CAPTURED

Land, Aerial, Naval Forces In Action Two Vessels Are Taken

SHANGHAI, Sept. 6.—(UP)—The greatest combined land, aerial and naval bombardment of the war rocked Shanghai today as Japanese reinforcements advanced in their push to blast the Chinese out of the Yangtze delta.

The Japanese announced they had captured the walled town of Paoshan, on the Yangtze just above where the Whangpoo empties into it. Japanese soldiers in the vanguard scaled the walls with ladders despite heavy Chinese fire.

Push Toward Woosung
From Lotien, where the Chinese previously had driven them back, the Japanese were pushing toward Woosung, at the mouth of the Whangpoo. The Japanese claimed to have captured the Lion Forest fort in this area.

Chinese sources admitted that the Chinese had retired near the Lion forest.

The Japanese succeeded in landing an estimated 15,000 additional troops along the lower Whangpoo under cover of the bombardment.

With the arrival of these troops, as well as Chinese reinforcements, foreign military observers estimated that 75,000 Japanese and 150,000 Chinese troops now were locked in the combat around Shanghai.

While the fighting in the Shanghai area raged close to the international settlement, these other developments also marked the Japanese push:

1. The Japanese blockade, instituted Aug. 25 along an 800-mile stretch of the Chinese coast, was extended to include the entire 2,000 miles from the Manchukuoan border on the north to French Indo-China in the south. The aim was to prevent the Chinese from bringing in outside supplies. The (Continued on Page Eight)

MRS. B. S. CUSTER DIES AT 76 ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Funeral arrangements were being completed Monday for Mrs. Mary Jane Custer, 76, wife of Benson S. Custer, Madison township, and mother of Bryan Custer, W. Franklin street. Mrs. Custer, one of northeastern Pickaway county's best known women, died in Columbus Sunday while on the way to Grant hospital. Hemorrhages caused death.

Mrs. Custer and her husband had gone to Columbus just before noon Sunday to spend the day with a daughter, Mrs. Minnie Tobin, 169 Mithoff street. While there she became stricken.

CELEBRATION OF LABOR DAY TO BE QUIET FOR CITY, COUNTY RESIDENTS

Circleville and Pickaway county observed a cool and quiet Labor Day.

No celebrations were arranged, and heavy rains caused many residents to cancel picnics and outings planned for the day. A celebration was planned at Gold Cliff Chateau. There will be airplane stunts, a parachute jump at 5 p. m. and passenger trips throughout the afternoon in a tri-motor plane. Athletic events have been arranged with prizes for winners.

MANY AUTOS HIT ON RURAL ROADS

Police, Sheriff Have Busy Week-End; Little Girl Hit By Machine

City and county officers investigated a series of accidents over the week-end in which no one was seriously injured.

Robert Peters and Paul Davis, of Circleville, escaped with bruises Sunday evening when the former's car and another, driven by a Fairfield county man, collided in Amanda. A front wheel and fender on the Peters car were damaged.

Fairfield county authorities reported that a man driving a model T. Ford started to cross Route 22 in front of the Peters machine. The driver of the other car was not hurt.

ELSTER COPELAND TO MANAGE PLANT IN BUFFALO, N. Y.

Elster B. Copeland, W. Mound street, manager of the grain department and assistant manager of the Circleville plant of the Ralston-Purina Co., for the last four years, has been transferred to Buffalo, N. Y., to become manager of the Checker Board Elevator Co., a subsidiary of the Ralston-Purina Co.

Mr. Copeland has already gone to Buffalo to begin his new work. He came to Circleville from St. Louis shortly after Ralston-Purina acquired the H. M. Crites elevators and has been active in the company's development since that time. He has been active socially and civically while a resident of Circleville, serving since Jan. 1 as secretary of the Kiwanis club.

Mr. Copeland, his wife and baby daughter will remove to Buffalo soon.

TWO-INCH RAIN FALLS IN CITY TO END DROUGHT

WIND CAUSES DAMAGE

Barn, Hay Destroyed In Walnut Township

A Summer drought that threatened to greatly reduce the value of Pickaway county's late corn crop had been broken Monday after a rainfall that totalled nearly two inches during the week-end.

"More rain fell in 20 hours Saturday night and Sunday morning than was recorded in the entire month of August," Dr. H. R. Clarke, weather observer, declared Monday in checking his records.

The storm broke early Saturday when a heavy rain, accompanied by high wind that leveled several fields of standing corn west of the city, fell. The rain continued through the night and until noon Sunday.

Dr. Clarke's government gauge showed 1.5 inches of rainfall from Saturday evening until 7 a. m. Sunday. The remainder of the rain amounted to .42 of an inch.

Temperature Falls
Accompanying the rainfall came a drop in temperature. Friday's high figure was 91 degrees Sunday's was 77. The thermometer dropped to 66 degrees during Saturday night's rain, and skidded 12 degrees lower Sunday night. The low reading of the week-end was 54 degrees, chalked up at 7 a. m. Monday.

The heavy rain, that appeared general, sent the Scioto river up three feet to a mark of 5.17 feet. It was still rising Monday.

Lightning Destroys Snyder Farm Barn

Sixty-three loads of hay, farm implements and harness were destroyed late Saturday afternoon when a large barn on the farm of E. A. Snyder, tenanted by John Malone, in Walnut township was burned after being struck by lightning.

A young calf and several horses were removed to safety.

The Ashville fire department went to the scene, but was unable to prevent complete destruction of the barn. The firemen helped to save a garage and chicken house nearby.

The barn was insured for $1,000 and the grain and hay destroyed for $700 by Mr. Snyder. Mr. Malone had insurance on other chattel property burned.

FIELD ARTILLERY UNIT HOME AFTER 18 DAYS IN CAMP

Thirty-two Circleville members of the headquarters battery, 136th field artillery, who have been at Fort Knox, Ky., for the last 18 days, arrived home at 6 a. m. Monday.

The group left Fort Knox at 4:15 p. m. Sunday. Joseph Lynch, second lieutenant, reported the group had a splendid time and was kept busy. The battery issued all types of supplies for the regiment. Merchandise included over $3,000 worth of food, 7,000 rounds of ammunition, 4,000 gallons of gasoline, and various other items estimated to amount to over $2,000.

TWO OF FILM COLONY COUPLES MARRY, WHILE RAYE SEEKS DIVORCE

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—(UP)—The week-end shuffle of movie colony romance provided husbands for Miriam Hopkins and Alice Faye, and a divorce suit for Martha Raye, proving, for the nonce, that bridegrooms preferred blondes.

The silver-haired Miss Hopkins, a veteran of two former weddings, eloped to Yuma, Ariz., in a chartered airplane with Anatola Litvak, Russian-born director. He fell in love with her a year ago when she starred in his first American picture, "The Woman I Love."

Also to Yuma by airplane went Miss Faye, the blonde songbird, and Tony Martin, movie and radio crooner.

Airplanes, Auto Crashes, Drownings Add To Nation's Toll

BY UNITED PRESS
Violence had brought death to more than 200 persons in 30 states as the nation entered the last day of the last holiday week-end of the summer today.

Airplane and automobile accidents, lightning, drownings, suicides, even a duel, added to the three-day toll which the National Safety Council predicted would reach 1,000.

OUTLAW HUNTED AFTER KIDNAPING TWO POLICEMEN

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(UP)—State and local police joined hundreds of private possemen today in a hunt for a desperate fugitive who held two Johnson City, N. Y., policemen as protective hostages for 14 hours.

Clyde Derrick, sought for forgery, released Policemen Patrick Cunningham and Harry Pettit at a deserted farm house in Cincinnati, 35 miles north of here, after forcing them at gun point to drive through a succession of traps. Police found the fugitive's car abandoned in Syracuse, 80 miles away.

The kidnaped policemen joined the hunt yesterday morning after Derrick had eluded officers at suburban Westover, where police said he sold an automobile he had purchased with a forged check. Chief Inspector Albert B. Moore, in charge of the search, said Derrick has been convicted on five felony counts.

At 6:15 a. m. yesterday, Derrick was picked up by Cunningham and Pettit as they cruised by in a police car outside Johnson City. Although he did not answer the fugitive's exact description, the officers had intended to book him for questioning. En route to police headquarters, Derrick flashed a .32 calibre automatic and said quietly:

"We are not going to the station house. Get me out of this town—quick."

GREEN AND LEWIS ADDRESS WORKERS

Roosevelt Writes Letter to Leader of Drive to Organize Public Employees; Militant Union Effort Scored

Labor's leaders went on the air Monday afternoon to outline their programs for the working man and his family. John L. Lewis, leader of the Committee for Industrial Organization, was to be heard at 1:30 p. m.; Frank Morrison, another leader, was scheduled at 2:30 p. m., and William Green, president of the Federation of Labor, was booked at 3:15 p. m.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(UP)—The most powerful voices of the nation's two great, warring labor organizations called on their members today to press for the unionization of every worker and to fight the rival to a finish.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor and John P. Frey, president of its metal trades department, renewed the federation drive to offset gains of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization. Frey, at Baltimore, called for intensified collective bargaining on the basis "of faithful observance of all agreements." Green spoke at Dallas, Tex. Lewis carried on his militant drive for unionization on industrial lines in a speech at Pittsburgh.

In countless other cities, labor rallied on its own holiday. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will close the day with an address over the Columbia network at 9:45 P. M. EST.

Roosevelt Writes
In the capital, a letter from President Roosevelt iterated his view that militant strikes by public employees would be "unthinkable and intolerable."

He wrote to Luther C. Stewart, president of the National Federation of Government Employees, expressing again the opinion he set forth in response to plans of the C. I. O. to organize government employees. He said organization of federal workers to improve their lot is "natural and logical."

Labor's new year began in the bitterest of internal strife but with far more men and women than ever before carrying union cards—more than 7,000,000.

Lewis claims for his C. I. O. more than 3,800,000 of them. Before he split with the A. F. of L. and launched the C. I. O. into one of the amazing and eventful years of labor history, the 56-year-old federation had 3,500,000 members.

C. I. O. strikes in the seemingly impregnable automobile and steel industries were primarily responsible for a 300 percent increase in the number of strikers in the first seven months of 1937 over the same period of last year.

Struggles to organize to obtain recognition and to get contracts sent 1,197,644 persons to the picket lines or their homes.

Frey, at Baltimore, assailed the "communist" and "self-anointed halo wearers" and their second cousins from the lunatic fringe who have headed the C. I. O. drive—

FARMERS URGED SEEK POWER FOR PROPERTIES

70 Percent of Ohioans Without Service, Says State Specialist

CHARGES ARE DISCUSSED

Possibilities Should Be Investigated

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6 — Advantages and conveniences of electrical power are so numerous that I. P. Blausner, specialist in agricultural engineering, Ohio State University, says all Ohio farm owners not having such service should investigate the possibilities of obtaining this form of power for the home and farm.

Ohio already is in the front line of states in the building of rural power lines but Blausner says there are still 70 percent of the farms here without high line service. Some of these farms have individual lighting plants, there having been 50,000 individual light plants in Ohio.

The home lighting plant cannot compete with high line service for supplying power to run farm machinery. Blausner advised farmers in Ohio communities to find out if it is possible for them to get power lines built in their neighborhood. Two methods are available, the first is to make contracts with existing power companies and the second is to form companies to build lines cooperatively.

Contracts Governed

Contracts with Ohio power companies for building rural lines are governed by Administrative Order No. 110 of the Public Utility Commission. This permits the companies to charge rural customers a minimum monthly payment of not to exceed 2 percent of the total cost of building the line.

Blausner states that, if the cost of building the rural line is $1,000 a mile, the company can require a minimum charge of $20 per mile per month. This charge would be divided between the customers on the mile of line; the average is four homes per mile in Ohio so each owner would pay a minimum of $5 a month.

The other possibility of getting electrical service in farm homes is for groups of farmers to form cooperative associations and borrow the money to build power lines. The Rural Electrification Administration is working on a 10-year program with $410,000,000 available for bringing high line service to farmers in the United States.

The money is loaned only after each project has been carefully examined to find if it promises to be a practical venture. Loans by the REA are made with the lines as security and lines which will not be used by steady customers are not good security. Ohio farmers are now building or have completed many miles of power lines with money obtained from the REA.

County agricultural agents or the agricultural engineering staff at the University can give more information about electrical service. Most farmers live within driving distance of the headquarters office of one of the cooperative companies now building or operating power lines. Visits to the offices and talks with the officers will prove to indicate whether or not similar projects are practical in your community.

FARM NEWS

Brief Items of Interest to Pickaway Farmers

Ohio is putting a mortgage on the future of her State Fair by providing inadequate facilities for Junior Fair exhibitors.

Ohio's sugar beet crop for 1937 is forecast as being average but is 41,000 tons short of the harvest for last year.

Cattle feeders on August first reported they expected to buy fewer feeder cattle in the last five months this year than for the same period in 1936. Better feed prospects may change this decision.

Poultrymen who have been trying to make both ends meet for the past few months should get some consolation from the prediction of lower food prices and probable good prices for eggs in the early months of 1937. Young birds are scarcer than usual in farm flocks.

The usual response to market prices by wheat growers in their fall plantings will result in 81 million acres being seeded to this crop. With average yields, that acreage would furnish a harvest of 950 million bushels. Domestic consumption in the United States is about 850 million bushels annually.

Foster Parents Adopt Donald

HERE is the happy ending to Chicago's parentage tangle. Mr. and Mrs. Otto Horst, Donald's foster parents, emerge from the courtroom with the boy after the judge had given his consent to their papers of adoption. The real mother, who kidnaped little Donald and then returned him to authorities, agreed to the adoption. She told the court she had no means of supporting the child properly.

Potato Growers Seeking Marketing Assistance

Potato growers in several of the heavier producing areas in the United States have asked the marketing division of the A.A.A. to administer marketing agreements to bring a semblance of order to the sale of this year's crop.

The plan proposed by the potato growers is to make agreements to sell only good quality potatoes and to keep culls and low grade potatoes off the market. If such agreements go into effect it will have some effect on Ohio farmers and on local buyers of potatoes.

The potato crop for the United States this year was forecast on August 1 at 402,537,000 bushels, and Ohio is expected to harvest 11,997,000 bushels. The nation's crop is about 10 per cent larger than the average crop harvested in the years 1928-32 and the Ohio crop is considerably above the average for those years.

A big potato crop usually means hard times in the sections where potatoes are the chief crop. Large supplies and low prices make a double burden for the producers. Those producers are trying to solve the problem by asking that only the best of the potatoes be sent to market and thereby reduce the number of bushels available for sale.

If this plan succeeds, it will tend to make the price higher to consumers but they will get a better grade of product. It also will tend to stabilize the production of potatoes so there will not be such wide fluctuations from year to year in the number of acres planted.

Very low prices for potatoes tend to drive out of the producing field growers who plant the crop only when they hope to make a fortune. This decrease in planting reduces the crop, prices sky rocket, and the in-and-outers come back in the producing field. Another big crop drives prices down and the cycle begins again.

The proposed marketing agreements are an effort to forestall such fluctuations. Growers hope to secure prices which will enable them to pay operating expenses this year and they also hope to keep prices next year below levels that bring the in-and-outers into the production field.

Potato growers are producing a crop that has had a history of feast and famine. One year up and the next year down has been the story of a crop which has to be sold the year it is produced. Potatoes cannot be placed in storage and held indefinitely like grain or cotton. The 1937 crop must be moved within a few months after it is harvested.

New Trailer Use

HOLLISTER, Cal. (UP) — The latest use for trailers is that of maternity ward — minus the doctor. Mrs. Freeman Farmer, 38-year-old wife of a Missouri rancher, utilized theirs to give birth to twins. "We never bother about a doctor," she explained.

usually. The 1937 wheat crop will be nearly 890 million bushels.

Agronomists at Ohio State University issue the warning that soil erosion does not stop when the growing season for crops is over. Winter rains remove unfrozen top soil nearly as rapidly as summer downpours. Cover crops of small grains protect bare soil during the winter. Fall plowing on sloping ground may ruin a field if no cover crop is planted.

TROPICS TO GET HONEY VINEGAR

EAST LANSING, Mich., Sept. 6 (UP)—Julio Rendon has returned to his native Yucatan prepared to make vinegar from honey, after conferring at Michigan State College for a week with Dr. F. W. Fabian of the bacteriology department.

He intends to breed bees whose honey will be used almost exclusively in manufacturing vinegar which he will offer for sale.

"In this country, vinegar is produced from cider," Rendon said, "but in Yucatan we have no fruits available for making cider. The vinegar made in Yucatan is very poor." Dr. Fabian added that throughout the tropics it is difficult to obtain proper acetic fermentation and that in Mexico vinegar sells for 90 cents a pint. Much of it is imported from the United States. Rendon believes he will be able to supply the demand with his bees and the honey-to-vinegar process, which he describes as "simple — just a little water, a few chemicals, mix the combination with honey, and the mixture ferments at once."

Rendon, a Spaniard whose family has been in Mexico for 150 years, is 73 now, portly, and distinguished looking. He formerly sold in Mexico Lansing-made windmills and shoes manufactured in Michigan, and he has traveled extensively in this country and abroad. Before he left his home, his wife looked at a map and immediately insisted that he pack heavy underwear. East Lansing's summer climate didn't warrant its use, however.

Rendon had corresponded with Dr. Fabian for a year and a half before he came here, and had made some vinegar from honey, but wanted more advice before he entered the vinegar business. He isn't the only man interested in manufacturing vinegar from honey. Dr. Fabian has also corresponded about the process with persons in Tahiti, Guatemala and Santo Domingo.

JURORS ORDERED TO APPEAR FOR SEYMOUR TRIAL

Notices have been sent to 20 petit jurors to report in common pleas court Thursday at 9 a. m. to hear the trial of Clyde Seymour, 24, of Pontius Lane, on a charge of driving when intoxicated. Seymour asked a jury trial.

Those to report are Daniel Reed and Orville Dountz, Scioto township; Mrs. Luther Dean and Milton Fullen, Muhlenberg township; Clarence McAbee and Wanda Wardell, Wayne township; H. W. Wardell, Mrs. Elvin Worthington, Everett Eakin and Ross Deyo, Darby township; W. E. ## INDUSTRY HOLDS MAIN INTEREST FOR STUDENTS

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The fifteen foreign students at the University of Pennsylvania Summer School are focusing their attention on America's industrial development, military and naval strength, according to Dr. George Nitzsche, Recorder of the university.

"It appears that in the present state of world political and social unrest," Dr. Nitzsche said, "their eyes are on America's future."

Differing from American students, who are intent upon visiting historic sites, Dr. Nitzsche said, students from abroad are interested in the United States Arsenal, the Navy Yard and large factories.

America cannot afford the waste and loss that follow ill-planned construction or the fulfillment of ill-laid plans. And what America cannot afford, none of the individuals who make up her great population can afford.

CUTTING CHARGE FOLLOWS FIGHT ON MAIN STREET

Alton Smith Jailed; James
Miller Goes to Hospital
With Slashed Abdomen

CITY POLICE KEPT BUSY

Trip to Jail Results From Traffic Collision

Nineteen persons were arrested by city police over the week-end, one of the busiest periods experienced in the department in many weeks.

Alton "Buck" Smith, 53, of New Holland, former resident of Circleville, was arrested on a charge of cutting with intent to wound James F. Miller, W. Main street.

Chief William McCrady said members of the department took Miller to Berger hospital where he was treated by Dr. E. L. Montgomery for a cut on the left arm that required four stitches to close and a seven-inch laceration over the abdomen. The officer said Miller was cut with a pocket knife.

McCrady said the fight occurred on W. Main street. He said Miller gave Smith a severe beating after being wounded. Smith was treated for cuts and bruises on the face and was placed in the county jail. Miller was not held by the department.

Virgil Tilton, 36, of Circleville, Route 5, was arrested on a charge of driving when intoxicated. Officers reported the auto driven by Tilton and a truck of the Marietta Concrete Co., driven by J. A. Heiss, Beaverly, O., crashed at Routes 56 and 22.

Melvin Johnson, 24, of Paintsville, Ky., was arrested on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Officers reported he had a .32 calibre loaded pistol with him in a W. Main street beer parlor.

Clarence Baker, 27, of South Bloomingville, was treated at the hospital for cuts and bruises received in a fight on W. Main street. Police said he was charged with drunkenness.

Claude Miller, 36, S. Pickaway street, was held in the city jail on complaint of his wife.

Many Charges Filled
Other cases and charges listed by the department were: Merle Ankrom, 17, York street, drunk and disorderly, $10 bond; Russell Hall, 47, Circleville, Route 1, intoxication; Ralph Hamilton, 18, Watt street, intoxication, $10 bond; Leonard Gilmore, 52, Darbyville, $2 for incorrect parking and $5 bond on an intoxication charge; Bees Hinton, 47, Williamsport, $5 bond for intoxication; Corney Smith, 22, Paintsville, Ky., intoxication; Cliff Kelly, 41, Route 4, intoxication; John Petrey, 54, Route 5, intoxication; Chalmers Johnson, 21, Paintsville, Ky., intoxication; Edward Sowards, 24, Tungs, Ky., intoxication; Bob Reed, Yellowbud, intoxication, $5 bond; William Briner, 57, city, intoxication, $5 bond; Joe Wilkes, 63, city, intoxication, released; Ben Metzgar, city, drunkenness, $10 bond.

FEDERAL OFFICE PROVIDES HELP FOR OHIO FARMERS

Information for farmers seeking laborers was provided Monday by E. O. Noethlich, area W. P. A. engineer.

The W. P. A. does not have power to assign workers to private individual interests. However, W. P. A. labor can be transferred under conditions to private industry through the National Re-employment Service.

Any Pickaway county farmer needing laborers for farm work should apply for this aid directly to the N. R. S. in Circleville, stipulating the number of men needed. N. R. S. then can requisition the needed labor from W. P. A. rolls in Pickaway county to supply the demand. W. P. A. workers are expected to take temporary jobs in private industry, since they are given preference on re-assignment to W. P. A. jobs when the temporary employment ends.

It is understood, of course, that the private employer pays the wages of labor procured through N. R. S., an agency designed to expedite the return of work relief labor to private industry.

One of the "conditions" stipulates no W. P. A. worker is expected to take private employment paying him less than his hourly rate wage on W. P. A.

Ashville Glenn Hay Busy

Met Glenn Hay Saturday who operated a couple of wheat threshing combines during the season, a chick hatchery and hundreds of laying white leghorns and during his spare time sold tons and tons of gravel out of the big bank. And now it is a corn picker. Said he'd let us know when he got it going and we should come out and see it operate. Thought he would have a hundred acres or more to pick.

That has been some fifty years ago, but its age hasn't lessened the interest us Old Timers hold for it.

Ashville Interesting Visitor

A car with a Texas license plate attracted more than our usual attention, when "making our rounds" with a hope of finding something we could call news. We started in to give the chap whom we figured owned it, "the third degree" applying several questions, but we hadn't gone far, until we discovered he was a real salesman, willing to talk and tell all about what he was doing and how he happened to be here. With a fine camera he was making a picture of George Kuhn's Clover Farm store. Said his name is Carl Sables and that he and his wife, who travels with him, have no home except his auto and the hotels. They travel over thirty states for the Clover Farm Stores, doing what they call "efficiency work". Said where the store proprietor would permit them to, they instructed him how better to conduct his business. We have met a number of these big territory salesmen, but this one we are telling you about was the real blue ribbon of them all. We shall ask George and Mrs. Kuhn and the young Mr. Younklin just what they thought of him, maybe we are wrong again.

SCHOOL PLACES FIVE COUNTIANS

Teachers, Graduated In Last
Launch Careers

Five Pickaway countians who were graduated from Capital university last Spring start on teaching careers this Fall. The number of teacher placements made by the Bexley school this year sets a record, Dr. William L. Young, dean of Capital's education department, reports. Eighty-seven percent of the 1937 graduates were placed by Sept. 1.

All public school music graduates had positions already early in the Summer. Forty-seven of the class of 48 elementary teachers had schools by Sept. 1.

Included among the Capital placements were Miss Betty Fischer, Jackson township, who becomes a member of the faculty of Malvern high school. At Capital Miss Fischer, who took the four year course, was a member of Kappa Sigma Theta and the nationally-famous Chapel Choir.

Other placements included Miss Marie Briner and Miss Doris Schreiner of Circleville, Miss Frances Malone of Williamsport, and Maynard Campbell of Perry township. They will teach at Mifflin town-

THIRD MAN JOINS RACE FOR MAYOR IN CHILLICOTHE

CHILLICOTHE, Sept. 6.—The race for mayor between James E. Ford, Democrat, and Harold Brown, Republican, was complicated when Edward G. Kunzelman, a Republican, filed an independent petition for the mayor's position.

Political leaders saw the move as a definite "break" for Ford, Kunzelman taking much more strength from Brown than from the Democratic nominee.

Ford is at present vacationing after being removed from office by Judge Harrison Jewell, who supported an ouster move by the ministerial association, brought about when Ford refused to order gaming devices out of the city.

The Capital admissions office has announced that although college classes will begin Sept. 9 the deadline for the admission of new students will be extended until Sept. 20. This measure was taken because of the recent announcement of the state department of education to the effect that teacher training requirements would be raised. Students who desire to receive training under the present rules must enroll this fall. No more two year training courses will prevail after this year.

LABOR DAY

TODAY Labor takes holiday. Every worker and his best lady, with or without children and grandparents according to his age, goes forth out-doors to have his one last good fling before Autumn closes the season of sun and fun. The worker has earned his holiday.

But he faces a new labor year, and after the picnic dinner there comes time to think and talk with friends. Is Labor gaining?
Will rising prices eat up every wage gain?
What of the status of Labor as regards capital and the common welfare?

It seems plain that there has been a real advance since the depression, in conditions, perhaps even more than in wages.
The real wage goes up or down according to the price level, but bettered conditions tend to become permanent. No workman of today would think of laboring under the conditions which his grandfather took as normal, especially in the matter of hours.

Along with new rights, however, come new responsibilities. The wise workman knows that the public welfare is paramount over the rights of either capital or labor.
"United we stand, divided we fall" always was a good motto. When it is applied not only to the union of workers but to the cooperation of labor with capital, and of both with the public of which they both are part, every American may rejoice. In more working groups than ever before, such cooperation is now the order of the day.

ASSISTANT POSTMAN

MINNEAPOLIS boasts of a collie dog that serves as assistant in mail delivery.
Twice a day he meets the postman as the latter gets off a street car with his mailbag, and proudly escorts him around his route.
If there were a change in postmen, and the dog approved of the new incumbent, there would be no trouble about learning that route. The dog doubtless thinks he's the fellow who's delivering the mail, and the postman is just coming along for the walk.
The case, however, isn't at all singular.
Collies often do this sort of thing with great faithfulness. They themselves, when they are free to range, usually develop "beats" of their own, which they cover regularly and uniformly every day, making circuits of perhaps two or three miles.

When you consider the wonderful development of the German shepherd dogs used to guide the blind, it seems as if more fruitful use might be made of this trait in the collies. Their intelligence, resourcefulness and faithfulness are high. They have a remarkable faculty for understanding human speech, greater, in fact, than most humans have for understanding theirs.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up late after complete success in an effort to catch up on sleep lost in the heat wave. And that, too, as here and there a maple begins donning fall attire.
Scanned the paper leisurely and then downtown through a drizzle that disturbed no one.

Noted that the slaughter of non-combatants continues in the Orient. Can not see just what military advantage rests in the murder of women and children, but such procedure apparently is part and parcel of ultra-modern strife. Would not be surprised if in the next great war the opposing forces resort to torture.
Both sides, of course, will call on God for divine guidance and pretend to fight for Him.

Another Labor Day and one with more significance than any that have gone before. Truly an occasion for celebration by the working man, what with his retirement pension, job insurance and present-day wage level.
And, according to some leaders, this is only the beginning. The worker believes that, too, if the government leaves any cash in the business strongboxes.

Which it probably will not.

Highly pleased by the President's announced attitude on Americans in the Orient. They remain there at their own risk, and that is as it should be. It is a mighty fine thing to spread Christianity and business, but not at the cost of war. The killing of a few Americans in the Eastern fighting should not be a signal for our war machine to go into action. Always the scrivener has believed it absurd that thousands of lives should be sacrificed because a few have been lost. Something like a foolish man pouring his entire fortune into an investment in which the loss of a few dollars proved beyond all doubt to be worthless. Woodrow Wilson promised to keep us out of the World War and he might have done so if he had assumed the same attitude as Franklin D.
Roosevelt and told Americans to remain home where they belong in time of strife.

Stebbleton, the Kroger manager,

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

REMOVAL ENDS PATRONAGE ROW

WASHINGTON—The President wielded a long overdue broom when he swept Commissioner Vincent Miles from the Social Security Board, also when he appointed Frank McNinch chairman of the Federal Communications Commission and Commander T. A. M. Craven a member.

The FCC has been in sore need of a house-cleaning for several years, and in the SSB Miles had been at loggerheads with his colleagues almost from the day he took office.

A former Arkansas lawyer with coal company clients, Miles was named to the Social Security Board at the behest of the late Senator Joe Robinson. The report at the time was that Robinson got him the job in order to keep Miles from running against him in the 1936 election.

On the Board, Miles warred almost continuously with his fellow members. The chief bone of contention was patronage.
The Board has been adamant in opposing the politicalizing of its staff and has insisted on selecting its personnel strictly on merit. Miles wanted to play ball with the job-grabbers on Capitol Hill.

Friends of former Chairman John Winant attribute the able New Hampshire Re-publican's refusal to accept reappointment to his difficulties with Miles.

Miles also aroused the hostility of labor by secretly lobbying against the Guffey coal bill.

Miss Molly Dewson, Miles' successor, is a distinct improvement. Although in politics for the last few years as chief of the Women's Division of the Democratic National Committee, she has had extensive experience in welfare administration. She prepared the economic brief for the defense of the District of Columbia minimum wage law in 1922. She is also noted for exceptional ability as an organizer.

FCC CHAOS

The Federal Communications Commission was recently described by a White House official as the "No. 1 mess of the Government."

In no other agency has there been so much dissension, turmoil, incompetence and politics. Some of the commissioners are not even on speaking terms. When they have to communicate with one another, they do so through their secretaries.

As a result of this personal wrangling, effective regulation of the radio, telephone and telegraph industries has bogged down to where it is practically non-existent. Vice Chairman Irvin Stewart became so disgusted that he refused reappointment last spring.

One cause of friction was the publicity-seeking antics of certain officials. Chief source of trouble, however, was the policy pursued toward the big radio broadcasting chains.

Several commissioners charge that the networks wield undue influence in the Commission. Whether this is true or not, it is a fact that the chains have got practically everything they want from the Commission. Of the 40 cleared channels in the U. S., only one is allotted to an independent station.

Near-Sightedness, Astigmatism Affect Eyes

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

YESTERDAY WE pointed out that good vision doesn't always mean healthy eyes; that a child may be able to focus and read a test chart perfectly and yet be putting his eyes on a strain. The three kinds of eyestrain are far-sightedness, near-sightedness and astigmatism.

We considered far-sightedness yesterday and pointed out that the far-sighted child often goes for a long time before his condition is suspected because he can always, by straining his focusing muscles, bring the image in his retina.

The near-sighted child is not able to do this, because in his case the eyeball is too long and the image falls in front of the retina.
Straining on the lens simply pulls it further forward. In the far-sighted child the eyeball is short, and with the lens at rest the image falls behind the retina, but he can always pull it onto the retina by thickening his lens with his ciliary muscle.

Since the near-sighted child can not achieve clear vision in this way, his defect is readily detected from his actions. His only method of accommodation is to bring an object closer to his eyes. He can do this with a book, but not with a factory chimney a mile away.

Near-sighted eyes are inherently weaker, and their supporting structures allow a certain amount of stretching, which just makes matters worse unless correction is made with glasses. A full correction will give the child normal vision for distance, and the focusing muscle will be forced to act in a normal manner.

Drugs Necessary

In order to prescribe such glasses the ciliary muscle must be put at rest with medicines such as atropine or homatropine. Since so many of these examinations are carried out by optometrists, I am in favor of legislation allowing them to employ these special drugs. It is very silly to allow a man to use half the tools of his trade and not the other and equally necessary half.

Astigmatism is lack of complete regularity of the surface of the optical tract. This is a difficult ideal. There are very few eyes that have not some astigmatism.
The word means "not a point", which signifies that the images on the retina are not as sharp in outline as they should be.

Unless the astigmatism is extreme this results in little visual embarrassment. There is a great deal of fussy nonsense practiced in putting eyeglasses on children for astigmatism who really don't need them at all. In fact, would be better off without them, as it affects their personalities, making them priggish, or neurotic, or self-conscious as the case may be. If suggestion is used any child can drum up a headache to blame on astig-matism. Extreme cases, of course, do have symptoms and need correction.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Mary K. May returned to her home on E. Franklin street after a visit with relatives in Cleveland.

Rev. Fr. J. J. Herman, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church of Marietta for the last 10 years, was assigned here to succeed the late Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. S. Hannan.

Mrs. William Beavers was returned to her home on W. Union street from White Cross hospital where she underwent an operation.

10 YEARS AGO

O. E. Prose, 61, livestock buyer, died at his home on Pleasant street following a two-day illness of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Edwin Judy, of Tarlton, went to Delaware as delegate to the Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The trip Dick Denman, Cummings Robinson and Max Rader planned to make to Gary, Ind., ended near Marion when the car in which they were riding collided with a road roller. They escaped with bruises.

25 YEARS AGO

Joshua Lee, 80, Civil War veteran, was overcome by heat. He was removed to his home near the Esmeralda cannery plant.

Walter McDill, Wayne township, who became ill of typhoid fever while serving on a petit jury about a month ago, is reportedly convalescing.

John H. Lutz was awarded the contract to fence Logan Elm park.
About 140 rods of fence will be needed.

COPYRIGHT, RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER 42

LARRY HOLK said it was like winning a world's championship, like being the author of the best seller, like being the mother of quintuplets! To be commissioned to costume the play of the season in New York for the most widelyheralded actress was an accomplishment.

And Mari decided that her clothes would be talked about.
She left the villa, still filled with guests, and went directly to Paris with Carla. She barricaded herself in her home and had fabrics sent to her there. And then for nearly seven days she sketched, discarded her sketches and made new ones. She read Carla's play, demanded that Carla do scene after scene for her until she herself became the woman in the play. Until she felt in her very deepest heart, every shading of emotion that Carla was to portray.

And when her spirit was permeated with it, she began to make the sketches that she wanted, the costumes that were a part of the mood. Therein lay Mari Barat's art. She was no mere dress designer then. Her lines sprang from an inspiration that was deeper than the mind alone.

There was a gown of misty blue-black with a sweep of magenta. There was rich brocade and regal velvet. There was tenderness in the daffodil yellow, and passion in the deep purple.

And all the while that Mari labored for perfection, she was selfless. But when the gowns were finished, she knew that she had seen some of her heart in them. For now Tony Castle would see them; would know that "the untied girl" had produced a work of art.

Carla had said generously that her costumes were as great as her role, that they'd demand more applause than her acting.

That wasn't true, of course, but that her costumes were a sensation was true.

Again there were the cables from America. Cables of congratulation, cables containing offers from other actresses, other producers and four contracts offered from Hollywood. There were notes from unknown admirers. And treasured most, a hesitant, shy letter from a girl in New York named Louise O'Brien.

That letter Mari read over and over again. At first it had puzzled her. She knew no one named O'Brien. And, at last, when she realized it had come from the model who had been her friend at Castle's shop, she treasured it.

Surely if Louise had seen and heard of her clothes and had written to her, Tony would do no less.
Tony could not disregard her now!
He must, if only out of professional courtesy, write her a congratulatory note.

Weeks, months passed after the opening in New York. There was never any word from Tony.

Mari ceased to run through her mail, separating that from America and then, slowly and with high hopes, set it aside, letter by letter. With fingers that trembled she opened the envelopes that gave no clue to the writer.

At last she knew it would not come. She settled back into the calm that was neither happy nor unhappy.

She had her work. And that year, she had labor troubles.
Hesitant because she was not a Parisian, she deputized her representatives to draw up a code that was to be accepted and right the difficulties. That move was to make her position more secure and later—

In the meantime, like so many

"So you're not satisfied yet?"

women whose cup is filled to brimming, but tasteless, she traveled. She took a North Cape cruise. She went to St. Moritz for the winter sports; to England for the races and to renew her first friendship with Ellen Verlaire.

She went to Scotland to shoot grouse, and to Salzburg to the opera festival.

She refused a proposal of marriage from an English lord with the same grace that she refused the Italian composer. She told the young French flyer whose plane she christened that, of course, she believed he was making the flight for her alone, but refused the diamond bracelet he wanted to give her.

She was hostess at a ball given by an Indian Maharaja and accepted the priceless, created, cigarettes box he offered her. She accepted, without ever thinking of them, the constant attentions of Mark Sutherland who was a quieter, less mature person than she had thought him when she first knew him.

She moved in the smartest of continental society, wore clothes that were the envy of every woman who saw her, and became more beautiful and brittle with the passing of time.

She went to Cairo with Mark and Ellen. Long since, she had lost her bright feeling of anticipation when she embarked upon a journey. But she was touched and inspired by the beauty of the Orient.

Every scene, so different from the accustomed panorama, inspired a color combination, a motif with which you are since familiar.

Going by boat to Alexandria, from her deck chair she saw a dusky maiden waving a scarf from beneath a palm tree on an island in the Azores. Hastily her sketch book came out. She would print a fabric in brown and red and orange. She must experiment with dyes, get a combination to give white the strange cool greenish tinge of pineapple. You remember "pineapple white"?
When she heard that there were seals and rare birds—seals in the tropics!—at Madeira, she resolved to make amusing buttons of black wood, shaped like seals and cleverly treated to have their sleekness.

So it was wherever she went.
It was the machine in her, and not the woman, who made much of the beauty that should have held her spellbound.

She looked for designs everywhere. The only time that she realized that she rode the same waters that Antony and Cleopatra had sailed thousands of years before. She thought of Caesar and Zenobia, and wondered if duLac would have her shipment of ordered skins from Russia when she returned.

On the delta she saw the natives driving their water buffalo, camels and donkeys. She heard the ever present chanting of the blacks, the turbaned youth that served her.

Unmoved she looked upon the indescribable beauty of Egyptian nights—palm fronds stirring, silhouetted against the yellow eastern sky. She heard the weird music of cymbals as slowly moving figures sang on the river's bank.

Once, sitting on deck, watching the skies turn from lilac to purple, watching the mimosa trees and date palms grow black, she saw great white cranes rise and wheel against the dark sky, and felt the impact of beauty with unbearable poignancy.

"What next?" she whispered aloud.

Mark was sitting beside her.
"So you're not satisfied yet? Why not try a look-see at your home town? There's been many a skyscraper put up since you turned your back on it." "New York?"
Mari felt suddenly breathless. She had never admitted that she was still running away. But why should she now? She could return in triumph. It was exciting! She wished her visit to Cairo were not just beginning. She must go to New York.

Buck Marrow Scores Real Game, Too

BY UNITED PRESS

The Columbus Red Birds were more securely entrenched in the American Association league lead today, after beating the third place Toledo Mud Hens, one of their two rivals in the stretch drive for the pennant.

The second-place Minneapolis Millers lost to the St. Paul Saints.

John Chambers was a master all the way in the Columbus victory, 6 to 1. He was headed for his fifth shut-out of the year when Ed Coleman hit a ninth inning Toledo home run.

Bill Norman was an enigma to Minneapolis pitchers and his two home runs were responsible for five tallies in the St. Paul victory, 8 to 5. Landrum also hit a homer for the winners.

Kansas City relied on Ted Kleinhaus, southpaw pitcher, recently purchased by Cincinnati to win from Milwaukee 3 to 0. Kleinhaus held the Brewers to a pair of one base hits. The Blues made 14 hits.

A Louisville pitcher, Buck Marrow, also turned in a shutout, scattering four Indianapolis hits in his team's 4 to 0 victory. The second game was a 3 to 2 tie, called because of the Sunday closing law.

New York Teams Hold Lead In Both Leagues

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(UP)—The major leagues, offering their usual Labor Day doubleheaders, presented today a surprising replica of the 1936 pennant race picture.

Both New York teams are out in front—not as far as they were at this time last year, but far enough to send hopes of New Yorkers soaring in the direction of another subway series.

The Giants a year ago were three games out in front. Today they are two games ahead of the Chicago Cubs, and if the holiday gods treat them as well as a year ago they will beat the Philadelphia Phillies twice and increase their margin.

AT THIS STAGE OF THE MARATHON last year the Yankees were 17 games ahead of the pack. Today they are 11 on top the Detroit Tigers but that is still enough of a margin not to cause Jacob Ruppert any worry as to whether he will be able to view at least half the world series from his private box in Yankee stadium.

The Giants were idle yesterday, their twin-bill with Boston being rained out, but their lead was increased a full game when Chicago dropped both ends of its double matinee to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The veteran Red Luos scored a 7-0 shutout in the opener when he scattered six hits. The Pirates took the nightcap 4-1 on four hits, and the game was played under Chicago protest because of a misunderstanding decision by Umpire Lee Ballafant. With the bases loaded and a ground ball hit to Herman, Pitcher Ed Brandt was ruled out for running outside the baseline from first to second, thus nullifying the force-play on Brubaker at the plate. It was Chicago's 14th loss in 21 games.

St. Louis Cardinals remained nine games from the top by dividing a pair with Cincinnati. A three run spurge in the sixth inning of the opener on singles by Myer and Schott, a double by Walker and another one-bagger by Goodman gave Cincinnati all of their runs in winning a 3-2 decision. Lon Warneke and Al Hollingsworth each pitched four-hit ball in the nightcap duel, and Cincinnati's only error of the day paved the way for St. Louis' 1-0 triumph.

Riggs juggled Medwick's double play ball with the bases loaded in the third frame, Terry Moore scoring from third.

Brooklyn On Top
Brooklyn poled out 12 hits off Walters, Kelleher and Jorgeson for a 6-4 victory, and the nightcap was rained out. Klein and Camilli clouted four-baggers for Philadelphia.

In the American league the Yankees increased their margin a full game by blasting the Washington Senators, 10-5. Gehrig homering. The runner-up Tigers dropped a 5-2 decision to the Chicago White Sox. York clouted his 31st homer of the season for Detroit.

Cleveland stopped St. Louis twice, 9-5, and 2-1. Denny Galehouse distributed 10 hits to win the opener with the aid of his mates' 17-hit attack, which included Trosky's homer with two aboard. A walk to Averill and Trosky's long double pushed over the winning run for Earl Whitehill in the second game.

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(UP)—Double work was scheduled for the tennis stars of seven nations playing for the national singles title.

Rain, which regularly disrupts the nationals, washed out all competition yesterday, but it also brought much lower temperatures that were more to the liking of the foreign entrants who have complained bitterly of the heat that prevailed during the first three days of play.

One of those expected to benefit most was the Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, Germany's top netman and second favorite to capture the men's title. He faced Hal Surace of Kansas City in a fourth-round match today.

Another of the foreign delegation who regarded the cooler weather a God-send was Senorita Anita Lizana of Chile. "I am not accustomed to such heat," the Santiago girl said. "I am lucky to win one match." Second-seeded among the foreign women, Anita plays Carolin Babcock of Los Angeles today.

KATHERINE RAWLS WINNER OF A. A. U. CHAMPIONSHIP

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—(UP)—Katherine Rawls, Miami, Fla., won her third A. A. U. women's swimming championship in the national meet at Flieshacker pool Sunday when she swam the 440-yard event in 5 minutes, 36 seconds.

Iris Cummings, Los Angeles, retained her title in the 220-yard breast stroke event. Her time was 3:16.9.

Erna Kompa, New York, took the 220-yard backstroke title from Eleanor Holm Jarrett. Her time was 2:57.5.

Final events in the women's national A. A. U. competitions will be held today.

FIGHT MOSQUITOES
TOLEDO (UP)—On a selected 21,000-acre tract of land, city and county health and sanitary officials will conduct a test drive against mosquitoes.

About This And That In Many Sports

Bill Booth's Dead

Some things happen in the world of sports, that no matter how near or personal they may be, they make one almost shed tears : : : Such an instance is the death of Bill Booth, one of Ohio's finest high school athletes while at East Liverpool and destined to become a football star in the Big Ten : : : Wet highways, a skid, and a crash resulted in his untimely death near Steubenville Saturday evening : : : Bill Booth was counted on to play left halfback for the Bucks next Fall, and he would have been an outstanding gridder : : : The same thing happened at Purdue last Fall, you recall, when deaths followed a locker room explosion. * * *

Birds Are Enroute

The Red Birds are on their way toward an American Association pennant if they can make a good showing this afternoon against the Mudhens from up Toledo-way : : : The Birds won Sunday, and the Hens seemed down in the dumps, but you never can tell about Fred Haney's aggregation especially if he fires his two southpaw aces, Sullivan and Hatter, at the Birds : : : Shotten expects to use the dizzy type, too, with Macon and Lanier nominated. * * *

Cubs in Difficulty

The Chicago Cubs are on the downgrade, it would seem, but their supporters point to the fact that they still have 20 games to play at home : : : However, they played at home Sunday but Pittsburgh knocked off a double bill putting the Giants two full games in front : : : The Cincis and Cards played a picture doublebill, splitting the honors. * * *

Playoff Begins Tuesday

The softball league playoff starts Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock with Cooper Oils of Commercial Point taking on the Container Corporation of America : : : The first team to win three games is decided the Tri-County loop titlists : : : Smoky Williams and Leonard Buskirk will be the opposing hurlers : : : Art Walker, stellar Cooper Oil third sacker, may be out of the lineup : : : He took a slice out of his leg last week with a corn knife. * * *

Golfers Matched

First flight: John Jenkins vs. George Speakman; C. Gilt vs. D. C. Black; Mac Mader vs. N. E. Reichelderfer; John Bragg vs. Tom Gilliland; C. T. Gilmore vs. John Eshelman; G. D. Phillips vs. Frank Marion : : : Russ Imler scored another eagle on the club course last week, sinking a No. 5 iron shot on No. 6 green for a deuce : : : Bill Crist tallied one on No. 1 the same evening. * * *

Expert Praises Tresh;

Joe Jacobs Laughs; York Garage Mechanic

Tom Laird, San Francisco writer who seldom makes a mistake in sizing up a ball player, brings word that Mike Tresh, who is catching for Oakland, will make the Tigers next year, or else... the "or else" in this case is a guy named Rully York, who has been doing a dandy job for the Bengals since putting on the mask... One of the reasons for Al Weill's success as a matchmaker is that he never would let a manager talk (or buy) his fighter into a bout... Weill, who now is Mike Jacobs' chief assistant, matches them the way he sees them, and he sees them with a sharp eye... he is probably the only promoter who was able to put on fights during the depression period and make money.

Squire (Battling Burleigh) Grimes of the Dodgers has been letting his temper get away with him in his handling of the team... the other day First Baseman Buddy Hassett was removed from the game because he blew a twisting bunt... Grimes roared at the youngster... and Hassett roared back... the dear old Dodgers still are the dear old Dodgers... Joe Jacobs, maharajah of Max Schmeling whenever Max isn't managing himself (on alternate Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays) says the biggest laugh he got this year was the statement issued by the Twentieth Century club concerning that series of elimination bouts "between fellows like Braddock, Schmeling, Baer, Pastor and Farr" to select an opponent for Joe Louis... says Joe, "That's like saying

Ex-shortstop Arky Vaughan of the Pirates says he likes the outfield so well he thinks he'll stay there... The California football experts aren't able to find a team they don't think will be beaten this fall... Coach Stub Allison of California offers some illuminating testimony... says he, "I think California, Southern California, Stanford and Washington will have an edge on the others this year—but you can't overlook U. C. L. A. either"... Consider the case of Bob Weiland... he was kicked around the American league for years and now is the best flier on the Cards' staff... The tip is Jadwiga Jedzejowska to win the national tennis title... the Polish gal has been playing some fine tennis this year.

Rudy York, the first fellow to shade the Babe's record for 17 home runs in a month, is part Cherokee Indian... and four years ago was a garage mechanic in a little Georgia tank town... And Cochran made a catcher out of him after he had failed at almost every other position except pitching... Well, what's the name of the fellow who'll open the wrestling season Sept. 15 in Madison Square Garden against Crusher Casey?... men beside Johnny Goodman have yes, Jim London... Four other won the National Open and National Amateur... Jerome Travas, Chick Evans, Francis Outmet and Bobby Jones. And that's all for today... have to protect my hands.

EUROPEAN SPEED BOATS CONTEST IN CUP EVENTS

DETROIT, Sept. 6.—(UP)—Three European powerboats that resemble stream-lined flatirons and are equally as hot under pressure of expert mechanics and drivers are expected to blast existing records of the sky today when ten hydroplanes answer the starting cannon for the first International Gold Cup race.

The gold cup event is 34 years old but it takes on an international flavor this year for the first time. Two snappy boats from Italy and another from France responded readily when American power boat moguls decided this year to allow foreign craft to compete for the famous trophy. And their acceptance of the American invitation is likely to mean a European winner this year.

Count Theo Rossi De Montelera, wealthy Turin, Italy, Vermont maker and former officer in the Italo-Ethiopian war, has two boats tuned for the starting gun. The count himself will be at the controls of the Alagi, faster of the two, while his pal, Guido Cattaneo, designer of the boats, will wheel the Aradam. Powered by Isotta Fraschini engines used by Italo Balbo's planes in his mass flight from Italy to America, the Alagi and Aradam on paper are faster than any American boats. The Alagi holds an unofficial world record of 90.97 miles an hour.

YESTERDAY'S HERO:—Red Lucas, veteran Pittsburgh pitcher, who hit a three-and-two ball for a single that cleaned the loaded bases to help the Pirates to victory.

INDIVIDUAL GUN MATCHES STAGED AT CAMP PERRY

CAMP PERRY, O., Sept. 6.—(UP)—Individual pistol matches will be a feature here today at the national tournament of marksmen. Tuesday the individual rifle matches will be fired and Wednesday the national pistol team match will be on the calendar.

When the United States small bore team of 20 shooters, fired the International Dewar match yesterday they scored a total of 7854 of possible 8,000, but this was not enough to win the match this year as the British team, firing on English ranges, has already turned in a score of 7896.

This match is fired by competing teams on their home ranges. The American team has held this trophy since 1926 when it captured it from the British shooters. Dr. Russell Gardner, Troy, O., was high man on the team with score of 398; other Ohio shooters were: W. Sayrs, Cincinnati, 396; Leland A. Herrington, Cleveland, 392; H. W. Beck, Dayton, 394; D. A. Bashline, Akron, 391, and Minnie McCoy, Akron, 388.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

IN NO TRUMP contracts, it is sometimes amazing to notice how important it is to have the right partner be the declarer. Frequently 3-No Trumps can be made if it is played from one side of the table, whereas there is not an earthly chance if the hand be played from the other side. Players with aces as single stoppers of suits should exert every resource to cause the hand to be played by their partners, whereas those who have kings and queens should bend their efforts toward becoming declarers themselves.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)
This deal came up in a recent duplicate and the success of the contract depended upon North's opening bid, after passes by South and West.

In several instances North's bid was 1-No Trump and, after 3-Diamonds by South, the contracts ended in 3-No Trumps.

The best score on the hand was achieved by Mrs. Aline Phelan of Atlanta, Ga., who sat in the North position. She realized that, if the hand ended in no trump, she would prefer to have her partner play it. She therefore started with 1-Club and over South's 1-Diamond she bid 1-Spade. When South now bid 2-No Trumps, she took it to three. The lead against this was the heart J, which was won with the Q. The spade Q was captured with the K, a heart return refused and then the heart A forced. After running five diamonds, West's discards left him with the spade A, the heart 10 and the K-9 of clubs. The spade K, so that 3-No Trumps was made. With North playing the contract and the club J being led, the contract cannot possibly be made.

MANFIELD MAN NAMED IN DEATH OF HITCH-HIKER

Term of Court To Begin At 9 A. M. As 14 Cases Are Considered

Complaints of Assault and Battery Listed

Fourteen cases were on file Monday for consideration by grand jurors when they start their first session of the September term of court Tuesday morning.

One important case for consideration is a charge of second-degree manslaughter against Robert Frye, 28, of Mansfield, resulting from the traffic death of Miss Elsie Harvey, 18, of Wharton, W. Va., June 27.

Miss Harvey died of injuries after she was struck by Frye's auto on Route 23, south of Circleville. She was walking along the highway, believed to have been hitch-hiking to her home. Frye is alleged to have made a wide swing on a curve. He is at liberty under $1,000 bond.

Other cases listed included five assault and battery charges, two on reckless operation of motor vehicles, two forgeries, three statutory offenses and one charge of receiving stolen property.

Those to report for jury duty are Orville Baker, Irene Trone and Frank Henson, Walnut township; Robert Walker, Scioto township; Jess Rose and Gus Steinhauer, Deer Creek township; W. H. Graessle and Reay Ridgeway, Darby township; Orren Updyke, Circleville township; Mabel Croman, Washington township; Harry C. Johnson and John Seimer, Third Ward; Beas Lilly and Grace G. Dunlap, First Ward.

our campaigns of organization," he said, "the newly organized must be taught that collective bargaining is one of the ends to be achieved. They must be taught that the methods of collective bargaining include the faithful observance of all agreements entered into with employers."

They must be taught that in the practice of collective bargaining, which establishes the relationship between wage earners and their employers, there is involved the largest measure of self-government in industry.

"They must be taught to deal with their employers on a basis of understanding and a method of contact with them which will lead employers to place greater faith in collective bargaining, so that many who have been hostile to organization among their employees will learn that through collective bargaining many of their major problems can be adjusted and solved."

JOHN WELCH, CITY NATIVE, DIES AT 83 NEAR GALENA

John Welch, 83, a native and former resident of Circleville, died Saturday night at his home near Galena after a stroke suffered six weeks ago.

He was a son of James and Ellen Welch. Surviving are his widow, Agnes McKenzie Welch, and a brother, Edward, of Columbus.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 9 a. m. in Westerville.

$10, COSTS PAID

James Travis, 51, of Ashland, Ky., paid a fine of $10 and costs to H. O. Eveland, Saturday night, on an intoxication charge. He was arrested by the sheriff's department.

Washington C. H., and that the other school boards were willing to approve him. Warren, who had much success last year—his first, resigned because of ill health.

Several of the buildings have undergone some changes, and Darby township pupils returned to find a new and modern structure awaiting them. Supt. Brice Connell has headed the Darby schools for several years.

Monroe, Saltcreek and Duval buildings were redecorated, while New Holland did some renovation work in its elementary building.

Enrollment Lower

School enrollment, when all pupils are finally registered, will be slightly lower than a year ago. The 1936-37 total was 4,333 pupils, while enumeration figures reached only 3,998 for 1937-38. Children between ages of five and 18 were counted. No specific reason was cited for the reduction other than the possibility that some of the families had moved to cities.

"Pickaway county expects an excellent school year," Supt. McDowell said Monday. "Practically all of the schools are in sound financial condition; nearly all have completed their teaching and administrative staffs. Many changes have been made in the teaching roster, but in none of the instances has the county system suffered. We have lost many fine educators to larger schools, but we have succeeded in electing other efficient persons to fill their positions."

Attention was called to the fact that several of the schools districts are seeking support at the Nov. 2 election for bond issue to help them expand. The Deer Creek township district is asking $30,000 to provide an addition; Wayne township wants an additional room and an issue of $3,000, and Scioto expects a three mill levy to be approved to finance the operating expenses.

his car had bumped a child, but when he returned to the scene of the accident the girl had left. The girl's name was reported as Arledge. She is believed to live near Stoutsville.

Walter L. Halstead, 27, of 1404 Indianola avenue, Columbus, and Earl Smith, 35, of Bremen, were arrested by the sheriff's department Saturday night on Route 23, near the Gold Cliff Chateau, after an auto in which they were riding went into a ditch.

Halstead paid a fine of $5 and costs to H. O. Eveland, justice of peace, Sunday night, for intoxication and disorderly conduct.

Smith denied a charge of driving when intoxicated and his hearing was set for Wednesday at 10 a. m. Charges were filed by Miller M. Fissell, deputy sheriff.

An auto driven by John Carmean, 70, of Williamsport, and one driven by Wayne Clum, 23, of 2110 St. James avenue, Cincinnati, collided Saturday afternoon on Route 22 about two miles west of Circleville. No one was hurt.

Miss Louise Hamilton, 30, Portsmouth, was treated at Berger hospital for cuts on the left arm received in an auto accident Sunday morning. She was discharged after treatment. County officers said they were not called to investigate the mishap.

Autos driven by B. F. Ward, Route 2, Circleville, and George F. Kennedy, 114 E. Auburn street, Bellefontaine, sideswiped on Route 56 west of the city Sunday noon. No one was injured.

A colored couple of Portsmouth escaped injury Saturday afternoon when the auto in which they were riding on the Kingston pike skidded, went through a fence at the farm of Orin Dreisbach, and overturned.

announcement said foreign shipping would continue to be exempted and that the blockade would not apply to special foreign areas such as the Great British port of Hong Kong.

The first action under the extended blockade, however, was the seizure of two Chinese customs cruisers near Hong Kong by a Japanese destroyer. The Japanese pursuit of the two Chinese vessels was reported to have extended into British waters, giving rise to the possibility of further international complications.

2. The Chinese foreign office announced that China has decided to make a formal appeal to the League of Nations against the Japanese aggression.

3. The Japanese drive toward rich Shantung province in north China began with an attack on Chinese positions in Machang, north of the Yellow river.

4. Japanese continued to extend the war front in southern China. Chinese sources said Japanese warships had shelled Swatow, 80 miles north of Hong Kong and had tried to land troops.

5. China sought further to unite every segment of the nation by making Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek supreme dictator and creating a war council.

6. Neither China nor Japan replied formally to the request of the United States and other powers that they move their forces out of the Shanghai area. But the renewal of fighting on a terrific scale gave evidence that the request would go unheeded. United States officials again appealed to all Americans to flee from the danger zones before the routes to evacuation points on the coast are closed.

'MESS', SAYS F. D. OF WAR BETWEEN CHINA AND JAPAN

WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IN LONG ISLAND SOUND, Sept. 6 — (UP) — President Roosevelt feels that the Sino-Japanese warfare has become so critical that the United States no longer can assume responsibility for American citizens who remain in the war zone.

Describing the Oriental situation as an awful mess, the president again urged all Americans to leave the danger areas. U. S. naval forces now in Chinese waters, he said, are sufficient to evacuate the 7780 Americans still there. Those who choose to remain, must do so at their own risk. Because many of them are in locations far from the sea where travel is slow, they will be given ample time, however, to reach embarkation points on the coast.

the District of Columbia Saturday and Sunday. Michigan and California reported 21 automobile deaths for the two days, and Illinois 13 and New York 12.

Two navy fliers were killed when their plane crashed into an open field near Friendsville, Md. A licensed flier and a student were killed in an attempted takeoff at Minneapolis, Minn.

Two golfers and two caddies were killed by lightning when they sought refuge from a storm under a tree on a Pittsburgh course. Another caddy fell into a flooded ditch and drowned, at Meadville, Pa. Lightning killed Henry Lamonte Bole, in Lemhi, Ida.

Carl Yeargin executed himself in a trailer in Los Angeles, with an ingenious apparatus patterned after that used in lethal gas chambers. A man leaped to his death from the 24th floor of Louisiana's state house in Baton Rouge.

JAPS SAY COMMUNISTS CONTROL CHINESE ARMY

TOKYO, Sept. 6. — (UP) — Communist elements have obtained virtually complete control of the Chinese military forces, Foreign Minister Koki Hirota asserted today in an address to the budget committee of the lower house of the Japanese parliament.
